Mayor, Grit Spur Gift Tax Saving

By RAY DYKES and IAN STREET
Colonist Legislature Staff

Oak Bay Mayor Frances Elford helped spur a proposed amendment Monday to B.C. gift tax legislation that would exempt non-profit corporations or organizations.

Minor housekeeping amendments to the Gift Tax Act are before the Legislature at the current sitting, but Monday a new amendment was introduced following a telephone conversation between Mrs. Elford and Premier Barrett.

The amendment stems from a situation involving an Oak Bay low-cost, senior citizens' housing project on Milton and money donated to the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club for the project. The donor, who wished to remain anonymous, sent $50,000 to the Kiwanis club before the gift tax was introduced by the former Social Credit government last year.

A further $28,000 was to be paid recently but gift tax of about $4,250 would have had to be paid.

Mrs. Elford thought this was "ridiculous" and decided to do something about it.

Her efforts resulted in what Barrett termed Monday an "excellent suggestion" and amending legislation was introduced as the Legislature

Kissinger Says Talks With Thieu 'Productive'

War-End Snagged In Saigon

AP, UPI

Presidential aide Henry Kissinger returned to the United States Monday as the U.S. embassy and a semi-official Saigon newspaper issued statements indicating the latest peace negotiations here had fallen short of an accord.

There was no official word on this, nor even on the subjects discussed, from either side. But an apparent failure to reach agreement centred on a ceasefire plan and an interim government to serve until a final political solution was achieved.

Kissinger spent five days in talks with President Nguyen Van Thieu, the most intensive Indochina peace negotiations to date. Asked at the airport if it had been a productive visit, Kissinger replied: "It always is when I'm here."

Arriving in Washington, Kissinger said, "We made some progress," but would not elaborate. He discussed his talks with Nixon for 30 minutes Monday night.

In Saigon, the embassy issued a brief and similar statement saying efforts toward an accord between Washington and Saigon will continue.

Tin Song, a newspaper which often reflects official views, said the general impression of observers was that negotiations between Thieu and Kissinger had been conducted in a "very heated atmosphere in the face of the unyielding Vietnamese determination to stand pat on its position."

A spokesman for the presidential palace said he could

Hurricane Aiming For Fiji

SUVA, Fiji (UPI) — Hurricane Bebe roared toward Fiji Monday packing 182-mile-an-hour winds after wrecking Funafuti and Rotuma islands in "one of the worst disasters in the South Pacific in this century," a Royal New Zealand Air Force spokesman said.

The pilot of a reconaissance aircraft said Rotuma Island was "a shambles."

"The airfield was littered with wreckage and we could not land there," he said. "We saw three Japanese fishing boats over 300 tons lying on their sides half submerged."

The air force said six people were missing in the disaster.

The Fiji weather office said if Bebe continued its present course, the storm would hit western Yasawa Islands of the Fiji group late today but was not likely to reach Suva.

Barrett Meeting Trudeau

Premier Barrett said Monday he will meet briefly with Prime Minister Trudeau in Victoria this afternoon in an attempt to reach agreement on cost sharing for the proposed NDP $200 minimum income for all citizens over 65 who live in B.C.

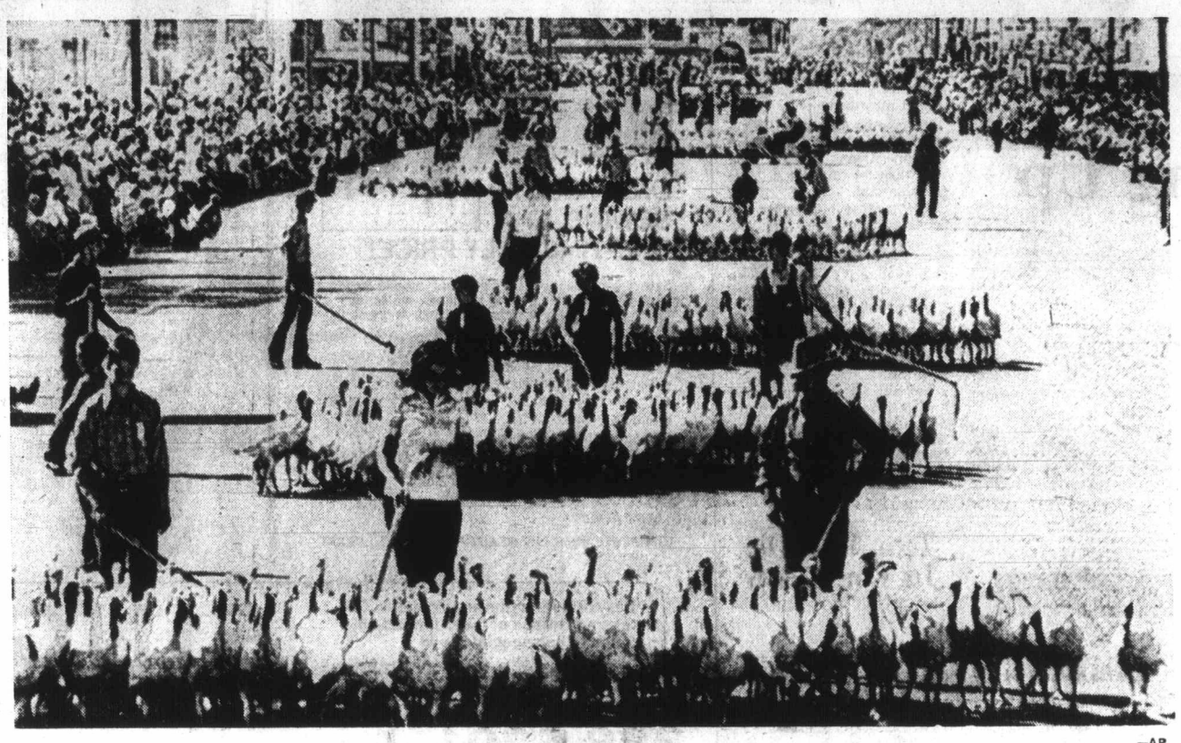

He will go to the airport about mid-afternoon to meet Trudeau on his arrival for a four-hour campaign stopover which includes a meeting in the Royal Theatre. Barrett will talk to the prime minister as they drive into the city from Patricia Bay.

Barrett told reporters he had decided to become directly involved in negotiations because there appears to be "great difficulty, not only among civil servants but politicians," in deciding what the cost sharing formula should be for the proposed increase now before the Legislature.

"It's a question of semantics," Barrett said. "The federal government is having some difficulty in interpreting its own act (Canada Assistance Plan). But we will assist them. As a social worker I'm quite familiar with the definitions (in the act)."

B.C. has said if the federal government won't agree to

They March to a Different Drumstick

Cuero, Texas, celebrating centennial year revived old custom Monday and staged Turkey Trot along with marching bands, floats and dignitaries in 120-unit parade. Years ago farmers used to drive turkeys to market at Cuero whose residents call it "turkey capital of world."

Stations Defy Allende

SANTIAGO (AP)—Three Chilean radio stations owned by opposition groups pulled out of a state-imposed national network Monday night and broadcast their own programs in defiance of President Salvador Allende's leftist administration. Authorities cut all three stations off the air within 1½ hours.

Oil Giants Join Ranks Of Lewis' Tax Bums

CALGARY (CP) — New Democratic Party Leader David Lewis flew tooth and nail at the oil and gas industry on its home ground Monday, adding three more firms to his list of "corporate welfare bums."

● Campaign stories, Pages 14, 21, 36.

"I have come into the den of the oil giants, taken the tiger by the tail and swung it around my head for all to see," he grinned to a roaring crowd that may have numbered about 2,000.

The three firms he attacked this time were: Gulf Oil Canada Ltd., Petrofina Canada Ltd., and TransCanada Pipe-Lines Ltd.

Lewis said Gulf had net earnings of $526.4 million between 1968 and 1971 and paid $49.1 million in taxes.

That meant a tax rate of 9.3 per cent — about the same as a family of four living on $6,000 yearly, he said.

"Gulf managed this achievement of good corporate citizenship by taking advantage of tax loop-holes and accumulating deferred taxes of $91.8 million, an interest-free loan from you, the taxpayer to this poor, poverty-ridden, penniless, foreign-controlled company."

Petrofina did not pay any taxes between 1966 and 1971, despite profits of about $80 million, he said.

Lewis said he included TransCanada on Monday's list "purely for nostalgic reasons."

Odd Pat for Jordan

'Black Day' Beautiful

A Socred MLA who referred to Aug. 30 as a "black day for B.C." when the province elected its first NDP government got support from an unexpected quarter Monday.

Rosemary Brown (NDP—Burrard), one of two black MLAs elected to the government side in the last election, noted several past references by Pat Jordan (SC—North Okanagan) to the black day on which the voters made their decision.

"As a person who believes very strongly that black is beautiful," Mrs. Brown told the house, "I would like to endorse the statement that Aug. 30 was one of the blackest and most beautiful days for the people of this province."

She said the legislation presented to this special session heralds "just the beginning of a beautiful era for B.C."

Five-Year-Old's Protest Turns Sour

By DONAL O'HIGGINS

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Not since Lucifer tumbled from the heavens has pride been so rudely shattered. But in little Johnny Mulligan's fall, the blame was someone else's.

It began with moments of heady excitement when 5-year-old Johnny joined several hundred other kids in a noisy protest march in the Roman Catholic Ballymurphy housing estate.

It was the second Sunday outing to demand the withdrawal of Britain's red-bereted paratroopers from the area.

From the start it was bedlam. The chanting, singing marchers jostled through the narrow streets, with Johnny in the vanguard.

Those in front struck up the Soldiers Song, the national anthem of the Irish Republic. A rival chorus in the middle replied with We Shall Overcome, theme song of the U.S. civil rights movement. At the rear they sang The Men Behind The Wire, the ballad of the internees. On the sidewalk two dogs tore lumps of fur from each other with ear-splitting snarls.

Johnny didn't sing. He may not have known what it was all about, but he was determined to show that he could shout.

"Paras out, paras out," he yelled, defiantly, for a quarter mile, giving a rude two-finger sign he had seen the grown-ups do.

Johnny, puzzled, hesitated a moment, then fiercely joined the chorus. "Para-lover, para-lover," he shrilled.

A 7-year-old stared at him, contempt spilling across his face. "It's you, you ass," he said.

"Look at your jacket, you British creep," said a roly-poly youngster, shaking a pudgy fist under Johnny's nose.

Johnny tore off his trendy little jacket. He stared in utter disbelief. There, on the back, in glaring white, was the emblem of the paratroopers.

"Oh," said Johnny, and, again, "Oh."

Then, in the circumstances, he did the only thing open to him.

He ran helter-skelter home, screaming "Mummy" as he went.

B.C. Will Start Prosecuting Next Year

Hadfield
... 'anti-social thing'

Motorists who remove emission controls from their cars are doing an "anti-social thing" and the Motor Vehicles Branch is getting ready to prosecute them but not until the latter part of next year.

"There is a program in the development stage in which we will inspect vehicles to discover whether these devices are working," he told the Colonist in a telephone interview Monday.

If they are not working, the motorist will be required to correct the situation, he added.

"The inspection will identify vehicles in which the devices have been removed and this is against the law," Hadfield said.

Some motorists are removing the devices, the superintendent said, in order to get higher gas mileage.

"But this is defeating the whole excercise of keeping pollution down. It's an anti-social thing and there is a strong law which says this is not good enough."

The legislation, which has been in force for some time, provides for a minimum fine of $100, Hadfield said. "It's not low. The penalty is one which fits the crime."

All 1971 vehicles had to be equipped with the devices, he pointed out, "so we have two years' models and we're already into the third."

"We've identified a few where we think the devices have been removed and we'll be ready to take punitive steps toward the end of next year."

Gift Tax Exemptions

was about to adjourn for the day.

The amendment opens the way for non-profit organizations to seek government approval for exemption from gift tax and low-cost, senior citizen housing groups, museums and other "worthwhile public purposes" such as art galleries to receive cash gifts free of the tax.

Mrs. Elford said Monday night she was "delighted" at the "positive, forthright" reaction by the premier to her suggestion.

"He said right off that if low cost senior citizen housing gifts weren't exempt they would be.

"I was very impressed. He agreed that it was ridiculous that gifts of this sort might be channelled elsewhere, perhaps to another province," Mrs. Elford explained.

Barrett told reporters outside the Legislature that he had discussed the Elford suggestion with Deputy Finance Minister Gerald Bryson and ordered an immediate amendment.

Liberal Allan Williams West Vancouver-Howe Sound) also had an amendment on the order paper Monday to solve the Oak Bay situation.

However, he said later the government amendment meets the needs set out in his action and goes further.

His amendment only covered senior citizens' low rental housing but the government extends exemptions to non-profit organizations.

Williams said, however, that exemptions will have to be obtained by "carefully spelled-out" applications to cabinet for individual approval.

"My only concern is whether municipalties and regional districts will qualify.

"The premier suggested I pose this question to him in debate on the bill and he would, for the record, indicate they will so qualify," Williams said.

Barrett also praised the Williams amendment.

"If I had not received a phone call I would have accepted his amendment.

"I have no reason not to accept such amendments from the opposition — if it's a good idea then let's accept it," the premier said.

The present bill before the house amends the Gift Tax Act so that it will conform with requirements of Ottawa and enable B.C., along with other provinces, to enter into a collection agreement with the federal government.

The bill also exempts gifts to educational institutions and hospitals.

The gift tax was introduced last year by the Social Credit regime. However, Opposition leader W. A. C. Bennett has said since then that his party wanted the act repealed.

Peace Try Hung Up

not confirm the Tin Song account, and the U.S. embassy would not go beyond its 29-word statement.

Reuters news agency quoted independent Vietnamese sources in Paris as predicting a ceasefire in Vietnam, possibly around the time of the Nov. 7 U.S. presidential election.

Reuters said the sources, who belong to a strong Vietnamese neutralist faction which has been closely following the Paris peace negotiations, also predicted that American prisoners of war in North Vietnam would be released in batches with the bulk returning home by Christmas.

Both Newsweek and Time magazines have reported that the United States and North Vietnam have agreed to a settlement that would include a ceasefire. But there has been no official confirmation in Saigon from either U.S. or South Vietnamese officials.

In Paris Vietcong peace talks delegates said Monday that basic issues remain unsolved although conditions for peace were at hand.

"As we have said on a number of occasions, all the conditions are presently at hand for a prompt settlement of the Vietnamese problem," said Nguyen Thanh Le, the North Vietnamese spokesman in a press statement. However, he added, "the war is being prolonged and intensified."

"Rumors are rumors and bombs are bombs," said Ly Van Sau, the Vietcong spokesman, when asked about the barrage of reports that peace or a ceasefire was near. "So far, the basic problems have not been settled." Sau insisted that South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu "must go."

Also in Paris Laotian Premier Souvanna Phouma said he expects an Indochina ceasefire to be announced before the end of the month, but peace will come later.

Souvanna cautioned that peace will take longer to work out than an armistice because of the tangled situation that varies between Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam.

Drug Cancels 'H' Effects In the Brain

CHICAGO (AP) — The director of a federal drug-abuse program said Monday that an as yet unnamed non-addictive drug with the capability to cancel the effects of heroin in brain cells will be available for the treatment of heroin addicts within two months.

Dr. Jerome Jaffe, director of the White House special action office for drug abuse, said a single dose of the drug will cause an "immunity" to heroin for 24 hours.

share in the additional cost of the $200 minimum income for the elderly the province will pay. Barrett said last week the estimated cost of the measure is between $45 million and $60 million.

The present ceiling with provincial and federal supplements based on need is $191 a month. But as Barrett noted this is currently paid to about 10,000 persons in the province and the NDP $200 will go to more than 100,000.

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS (CP) — Two men were killed and a third injured when their car smashed into a telephone pole near here, about 70 miles east of Vancouver. The two dead have been identified as Lorne Edward Robinson, 37, the driver of the car, and Edward Bustin, 35, all of Chilliwack.

Turkish Skyjackers Give Up in Bulgaria

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Four Turkish hijackers surrendered late Monday and freed the more than 60 hostages they held aboard a Turkish jetliner for 38 hours at the Sofia, Bulgaria, airport.

The four Marxist university students stepped off the Boeing 707 and handed their arms to Bulgarian authorities. Officials in Ankara said they asked for and will get political asylum in neighboring Bulgaria.

Turkey refused the hijackers' demand for the freedom of 13 leftist prisoners, but was reported to be unopposed to giving the four asylum.

Bulgaria's BTA news agency said: "All the necessary action has been taken to secure the safe and rapid return of the passengers, crew and plane to Turkey."

The hijackers had threatened to blow up the plane and the passengers if Turkey did not meet their demands for freeing the 13 leftists and reforms by the government. Faced with the refusal, the hijackers twice extended their deadline for action.

They told officials in Sofia their aim was to "tear down the Turkish regime and set up a Marxist Leninist system."

The plane was hijacked in Turkey Sunday on a domestic flight.

"That publicly-sponsored and financed corporation in private hands hasn't paid a single penny in taxes from the day of its ignoble birth."

Between 1966 and 1971 it had net earnings of $368 million and profits of $105.9 million "and still didn't pay a farthing to help run this country."

OPINION SURVEY
SHOWS YOUR GRAVE CONCERN

"WHAT DO YOU THINK ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT PROBLEMS FACING CANADIANS AS A NATION AT THE PRESENT TIME?"

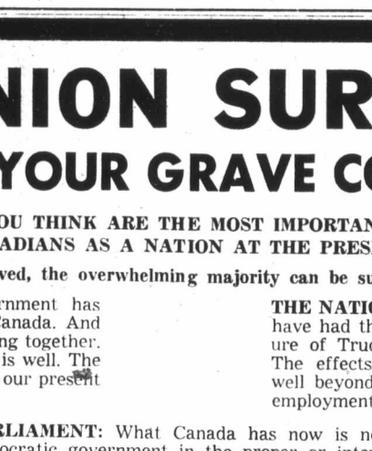

Of all the answers we received, the overwhelming majority can be summarized in the following:

THE ECONOMY: The Trudeau government has made unemployment a way of life in Canada. And unemployment and inflation are still rising together. Yet, still the government assures us all is well. The word "crisis" no longer has meaning to our present government.

THE NATION: Over the past four years, those who have had the least have paid the most for the failure of Trudeau's policies and his lack of policies. The effects of Trudeau's mismanagement extend well beyond the obvious problems of increased unemployment and inflation.

PARLIAMENT: What Canada has now is not a democratic government in the proper or intended sense of the term at all. There is no regard for the long standing principles of democratic practice and ministerial responsibility. In the early 1960s, the support staff of the Prime Minister cost roughly $50,000.00 annually. As of October 1971, Mr. Trudeau's office staff totalled 90 people, at a gross annual cost of $915,684.00. This increase in the power of a single executive is a source of grave concern, since it reduces the influence of the elected representatives of the people.

Canadian Couple Missing

ATHENS (CP) — Officials said Monday there is little hope of finding any more survivors of the Olympic Airways plane that crashed into the sea Saturday with 53 persons aboard including a Canadian couple missing and feared drowned.

Thirty-four persons were believed killed including the Canadians, identified by Canadian sources as George Norris Mackenzie, 55, of Toronto, and his wife, Mollie.

Mackenzie was president of Countryside Holdings Ltd., which has interests in radio stations in Stratford, Woodstock, Orillia, Midland and Huntsville, as well as cable television companies in Barrie and Orillia. The Mackenzies left here about three weeks ago for a vacation in Greece, and were due back Wednesday.

Nineteen persons including the pilot survived. Most of them were taken to Athens hospitals for treatment.

River Filth Flowed Backwards

The oil and debris were contained by two booms in an arm of the lake about 40 miles from the main body of water.

But unnatural currents were slowly pushing the debris back up the narrow sandstone canyons toward Copper Canyon, at the mouth of the San Juan River. The mess was pushed eight miles into the lake by flooding on the San Juan last week.

"It's a really odd thing," said Jack Hallowell of the Environmental Protection Agency. "When the rains stopped, it started to flow backwards."

Apprentices Butcher Bull

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — Twelve apprentice Venezuelan bullfighters, angered because two foreigners had been included on a program here, leaped into the bullring Sunday and stabbed and kicked to death a young bull being fought by a Colombian matador. Most were arrested, but some fled.

Manitoba Unionists Post Code Protest

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba Federation of Labor passed a resolution Sunday calling upon all union members to stop using the postal code system when mailing letters.

Delegates at the annual meeting voted unanimously in favor of the resolution, proposed as a form of protest against what the federation calls the federal government's failure to negotiate in good faith with the postal workers over automation and new job classifications.

IRA Gunman Routed

Child a Human Shield

BELFAST (UPI) — A gunman grabbed a screaming seven-year-old child in Belfast Monday and used him as a shield for a pistol attack on British troops. The soldiers held their fire for fear of hitting the boy.

In Londonderry, a 12-year-old Roman Catholic boy died in a hospital of shotgun wounds of the head, but authorities said the incident was apparently domestic and unrelated to the more than three years of political and sectarian violence that has claimed more than 600 lives in Northern Ireland.

A police spokesman said the 12-gauge shotgun went off accidentally in the city's Catholic Creggan district. There was no military activity in the area at the time, he said.

Earlier, British army sources speculated the boy might have been undergoing weapons training by the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) when the gun went off. They said the IRA has been known to train young children to handle guns.

In Belfast, a British patrol passing an intersection in the Catholic New Lodge Road area spotted a gunman moving into firing position, an army spokesman said.

Realizing he'd been spotted, the gunman grabbed a seven-year-old boy standing nearby, knelt behind him and pumped four shots at the dodging soldiers, the spokesman said.

"We dared not fire because of the child," he said. "Then the gunman backed into a dark alleyway and ran off, leaving the child screaming and scared but not hurt."

Swift Couriers In Mail Plans

OTTAWA (CP) — A special new courier service being considered by the post office will likely provide airport-to-airport delivery in specially-marked bags, a government official said Monday.

But details of the service have yet to be worked out and post office administrators do not want to be committed to one particular system.

The proposed courier system was announced last Thursday at the first postal users conference by R. D. Myers, director of market development for the post office.

He said the system would be more expensive than first class mail, but would provide for later mailing and earlier delivery than the fastest service the post office now has.

UIC Probers Likened To Goon Squads

OTTAWA (CP) — Former policemen and security guards are among a group of 80 new claims investigators the Unemployment Insurance Commission will have hired by mid-November, a commission spokesman said Monday.

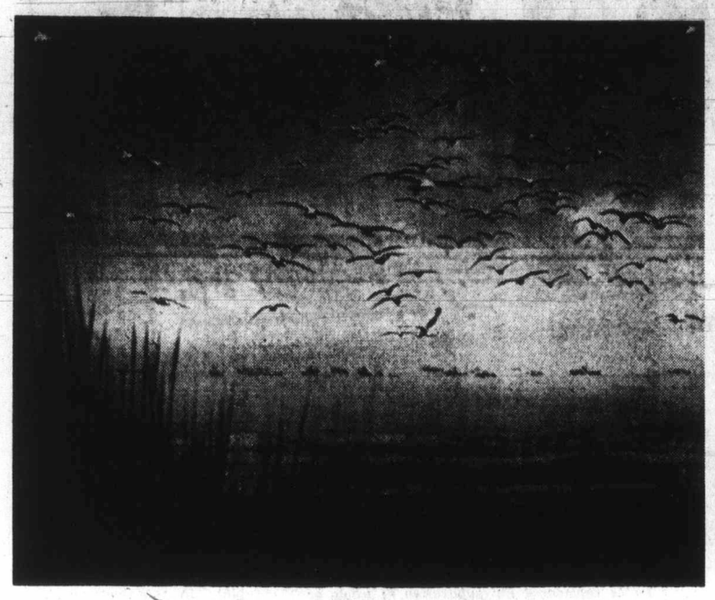

But Yvon Charlebois, director of inter-agency policy for the UIC, denied Monday that such people are specifically sought to fill positions as benefit control officers.

Charlebois was commenting on recent criticism by Larry Greene of Vancouver, a provincial official of the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

Greene said CUPE's provincial executive planned to protest to Manpower Minister Bryce Mackasey "the interrogation by trained investigators of claimants for unemployment insurance benefits."

"For a government agency like the UIC to employ ex-policemen and other professional security-guard types for the express purpose of interrogating unsuspecting workers and to trick them through the use of leading questions into making statements which lead to their disqualification, smacks of the use of government goon squads to cut down the cost of unemployment insurance and to deliberately distort unemployment statistics," the statement said.

Charlebois said he thought Greene's words "were a bit strong" and that he gathered that the attack arose from the experience of one laborer, "his case being the exception rather than the rule."

River Filth Flowed Backwards

The oil and debris were contained by two booms in an arm of the lake about 40 miles from the main body of water.

But unnatural currents were slowly pushing the debris back up the narrow sandstone canyons toward Copper Canyon, at the mouth of the San Juan River. The mess was pushed eight miles into the lake by flooding on the San Juan last week.

"It's a really odd thing," said Jack Hallowell of the Environmental Protection Agency. "When the rains stopped, it started to flow backwards."

Remote from Realities

LET THEM EAT CAKE. The words will echo on through history as the mark of an autocrat aloof, completely remote from the realities of ordinary living. Pierre Elliott Trudeau may never say anything as immortal, or as unforgettably to his shame. But he has come close.

The prime minister is quoted as telling a panel of television interviewers that "food prices have remained very low between the middle of '70 and the middle of '72. They've only come up 2½ per cent whereas wages have gone up 6 to 8½ per cent. So after two years of very slow rise of food prices and the rest of the cost-of-living index, I don't think it is shocking to see food prices go up. I think it's good for the farmers."

These remarks came less than two weeks after the release of Statistics Canada figures on the latest rises in the cost of living. For September, the general index was up 5.3 per cent from the level a year earlier. Food prices generally were 9.7 per cent higher, including a 10.2 per cent increase in the cost of restaurant meals and a 7.3 per cent increase in the cost of foods bought in grocery stores for home consumption. The largest previous increase in food prices for a year in the last two decades was in 1966, when they rose 6.38 per cent. The average for the last 20 years has been 2.1 per cent. The rise from the beginning of 1970 until September, 1972, was 16.8 per cent.

And as for the higher prices being good, Mr. Trudeau thinks, for the farmer, they are attributed largely to poor crops. Certainly the farmers are not cheering. It may be recalled, indeed, that after Consumer Affairs Minister Robert Andras said in August that distributors were not mainly responsible for food price increases (then up 7.4 per cent from a year earlier) the federal agriculture department hastened to defend the farmers. The department mailed to the farms of the nation a bulletin saying that processors and dealers had accounted for 64 per cent of the $2.8 billion increase in farm-food prices since 1961 and the farmers had benefitted from 36 per cent.

Furthermore, there is no end in sight to the upward course of food prices. When the unusual September increase was disclosed — the first time in four years that the September index did not drop — a chain grocery spokesman was quoted by The Canadian Press as saying, "There's no doubt we're faced with more increases. Our crop position has not been great and this already is reflected in higher prices ... There's been a tremendous increase in the cost of help in the stores, warehouses and for transportation."

In Defence of Freedom

REPORTS PERSIST THAT the agreement for a cease-fire long sought in Vietnam may be at hand. And there is substantial evidence to support the belief.

But a cease-fire does not mean that peace will suddenly descend on the land — and on the other war-ravaged countries of Indochina, as the negotiators hope — or that any settlement of the basic dispute between the North and the South has been accomplished.

Hanoi is still communist and determined to impose its ideology on the whole of Vietnam and to support sympathetic elements in Laos, Cambodia and Thailand in their campaign for power. The Saigon administration is just as adamantly committed to its interpretation of the democratic processes. The oil of Saigon's politics will never mix with the water of Hanoi's.

At this point — and the picture changes hourly — it would seem that President Richard Nixon is ready to give ground to the North, in the sense that he will accept the coalition government proposition. Since President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam will not, it remains to be seen whether Mr. Nixon has the means to persuade him to be accommodating.

Mr. Nixon's concern is for disengagement of his country from a fruitless adventure and the release of America prisoners of war. If he could announce such an achievement within the next fortnight it would lift him to a peak of popularity on the eve of the presidential elections.

Mr. Thieu's anxiety is that his enemies will use the cease-fire to consolidate, and use any foothold in a coalition administration to ultimately eliminate him. There is no doubt these would be their intentions, however much they now protest innocence of any such aims.

And there is no doubt, either, that a cease-fire would result in wholesale desertion in the fighting divisions of the South. They would simply take the announcement as permission to down arms and go home, while the better disciplined Northern soldiers moved into the vacuum.

Mr. Thieu is well aware of these dangers, and so must Mr. Nixon be. But Mr. Nixon will be some distance from the consequences of any compromise.

A compromise, however, should be accepted. The Indochina horror has gone on too long. But the means must be found to ensure that freedom of choice remains for those countries where ideological collision is inescapable. That means free elections.

Free elections, in turn, will require rigid controls. This would only be attainable by the use of neutral responsibility — a role for which France has already volunteered.

Any such arrangement as supervision by the wholly discredited International Control Commission — comprising India, supposedly neutral, Canada and Poland — is simply silly. Proper controls will have to be provided by truly neutral United Nations forces and in a sufficient strength to make it certain they will not be challenged. Perhaps Mr. Nixon can arrange it.

Victoria Bigotry

Before arriving in Victoria two months ago I held the belief, common amongst Britons, that Victoria was "just like home." Since my arrival this has been modified to "just like home used to be." The genteel atmosphere veils the kind of prejudice and bigotry that Britain has been trying to exorcize for the last 50 years. To my dismay I find that it has found a new home.

Together with a friend, a fellow graduate student at UVic, I have been trying to find a house or apartment since my arrival. Like many young men in their mid 20s, we have long hair. My friend is also what some people would call "colored" — he is an Iranian. At first I did not associate our difficulties with either of these facts, but as time goes on I am forced, reluctantly, to draw what perhaps should have been the obvious conclusion. Let me add that this is based on some evidence, and is no mere delusion of persecution on my part. I offer two examples drawn from many.

The rent of an apartment suite, confirmed to be $160 by telephone, escalated to $250 when we arrived to view it.

An apartment, confirmed as vacant during an intercom conversation, had "been rented" three minutes later when the door was opened to us. A later telephone call to the same manageress established that there had been no misunderstanding — the same suite was still available for rent.

This kind of prejudice is all the more depressing since my friend, after seven years in the United States, came to Canada, and specifically Victoria, in the belief that he would find the tolerance and open-mindedness so noticeably lacking in your southern neighbors. Because I share your language and culture, I feel ashamed that he has not done so.

JAMES MacGREGOR,
University of Victoria.

Investors

At a very recent press conference, Mr. Barrett said, inter alia: "No one is an innocent in the stock market. This is risk capital ... just read the newspapers and then make a decision: invest in the stock market or play the ponies."

The remarks related to the takeover of B.C. Telephone. I am sure the many thousands of small investors, widows, retired people, and those who worked a lifetime and own a few shares will be surprised to learn that they did not buy a blue chip, and could have done equally well by buying a racing sheet and making a few bets.

This is the sort of irresponsible nonsense that makes me wonder about those who are running this province.

H. R. SLAYTON,
Victoria.

Mr. Groos

When there are so many aggressive young Liberals in the local association why David Groos should be again nominated as a candidate is beyond my humble comprehension. Anderson our local elected Liberal in the provincial house is at least heard from year to year over local radio stations, service clubs, veteran's organizations, etc., whereas years go on and Groos aforesaid never renders a report to the electorate as to his stewardship. He hardly ever places himself in public when we the electors may be in a position to quizz him as to what he has done for us in Ottawa and what he contemplates doing in the future if elected after this campaign is over.

There is still so much to be done in Ottawa for veterans' pension rights and more particularly widows' pensions for old soldiers' wives. An act passed some three years ago recognized the rights of these widows and a mere pittance was granted. The writer is a charter member of two of the largest veteran organizations in this city and knows whereof he speaks. If the said member of Parliament was in any way associated with these concerns he would know of the plight of many of these old veterans and their widows. He no doubt spends his idle moments in the Union Club playing bridge or billiards.

The regular Ottawa Hansard is mailed to me and I follow the debates and procedures and it is very seldom our present representative from Victoria is heard from. There is so much a good active member could accomplish for our beautiful Victoria but I fear Groos draws his healthy stipend and does little. Harbor development needs a lot of assistance, perhaps Groos would pass the buck to our city fathers, but there is so much could be done from the Ottawa end if properly handled.

Instead of devoting so much of his time when in our city to boating with his friends, etc., he should report to the electors by hiring a hall, addressing service clubs, veterans' clubs, social organizations, quiz programs over radio, etc.

A VOTER.

Real Needs

Mr. Trudeau's plans for "byway" routes, throughout Canada, for canoeing, horseback riding and other 18th century means of travel, along with a few quiet roads for autos, surely shows unequalled intellectual judgment.

With the PM's present attitude toward unemployment, spiralling costs, poverty pensions, and tax burdens, the beneficiaries of such a scheme should be obvious.

Outside government officials, their guests and a few lucky rich, Canadians will be fortunate to see this park system on TV. Pictures taken and shown at their own expense.

It would be more sensible, apart from greater development of our secondary industries, both for progress and unity, to see such things as a bridge linking P.E.I. with the mainland or a large observatory in B.C. But these commitments were scrapped by Trudeau. Why? The expense! He always finds money to spend in Quebec.

It would be a lucky day for Canada if he returned there. He's far out of touch with Canadian needs and reality.

I. CARROLL,
Ottawa.

Monarchy

The recent obscene language, insults and total disrespect shown Her Majesty is to be deeply regretted and, as loyal subjects of Her Majesty, we condemn all such actions.

The Scottish students should have pondered for a moment on one simple-cold-hard-fact, namely, they were insulting our head of state — our Queen and head of the Commonwealth of 500 million people, who freely acknowledge Her Majesty as their Queen.

British Columbia monarchists are alarmed to see the Royal personage so affronted, and we are deeply concerned about the future security arrangements for our Queen. We are united in our stand for the monarchy and the position it holds within our system of government.

Issue Evaded

In 1971, more than 30,000 legal abortions were performed in Canada. Yet the evidence of recent medical research only reinforces the view, held by thousands of Canadians, that an abortion is the killing of a human individual whose life begins at conception and is continuous.

Increasingly we are waking up to the fact that recent changes in our abortion laws constitute a denial of traditional justice and have cut away a main prop of the moral and legal fabric of our society: the protection of the weak. The law as it now stands has in many urban areas given rise to virtual "abortion on request" — a result which has not been shown to correspond to the conscious will of the majority of Canadians.

It is clear that an astonishing reversal of justice was accomplished by the pressure of a vociferous and determined faction, exerted on those who, for varying motives, failed to make a more than superficial examination of the issues involved. Some resorted to the fiction that "abortion is a matter of private consciences." The fact is that the legal right to practice abortion has profound implications, the least of which are financial, for the whole character of society. It thus is the urgent concern and responsibility of very member of this society.

Understandably, many candidates for political office are anxious to evade the issue of abortion; yet it is our right to demand that our representatives accept their responsibility to represent us. The forthcoming election is the first opportunity the nation at large will have had to call certain members to account for the role they are on record as having played in the abortion issue. Indeed every candidate must be challenged as to the position he intends to maintain in the next Parliament. No one should be misled by the equivocation that a candidate is opposed to further liberalization of the law, since it is precisely the present state of the law which is permitting the present easy access to abortion.

Any candidate for office is entitled to his own opinion. But if he is personally in favor of the present state of the law, or wishes to lift abortion right out of the criminal code, let him declare himself publicly and unequivocally, and let the electors judge whether his views represent theirs. In our opinion, no criterion could be found more informative as to the candidate's fitness to participate in the government of this country, than his answer to the question of whether we allow private individuals to become arbiters of which lives shall continue and which shall conveniently disappear.

ABOUT ABORTION.

Freedom

Mr. Emery Barnes, MLA (and Premier Barrett, too), as an elected servant of the people, should learn, if he does not already know, that freedom of choice in a democratic society means just that, whether talking about voting, or religion, or products one may buy.

I, along with many other people, will thank Mr. Barnes to leave me to buy or not to buy as I, not he or a government, may choose.

To ban, for example, South African wines from B.C. markets because he or the present provincial government disagrees with the apartheid policy of that country, would set an ugly, ominous and very undemocratic precedent. If he advocates such a step, then it naturally follows that he will, if he is consistent and true to the principle involved, also recommend that items such as Russian vodka, Ugandan coffee, and Cuban cigars, to suggest but a few, will also be banned from B.C. markets.

I am in no way condoning the South African apartheid policy (as I understand it, I definitely don't), but neither Mr. Barnes nor anyone else has any right to dictate the choice of products which I may or may not buy.

Voters List

It is a disgraceful situation when a British subject is not allowed to vote in the federal election because he omitted to scan the voters' list, but mainly owing to the incompetence of the government-paid enumerator who failed to put on the list an 86-year-old resident with over 60 years in the country and four of them in my present home. There is no excuse for this faulty work of the enumerator when all the necessary information is within the immediate reach of the caller, but because of his or her indifference I am deprived of my last chance to cast a wish for my country, pro bono publico.

Shock Troops of the Parties

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

So Prime Minister Trudeau or Conservative leader Stanfield is coming to town.

And if you are a politician-watcher or even an ordinarily-concerned taxpayer, if you keep your eyes open you may see a lot of interesting types.

They make up the small army of specialists who lay on the arrangements for the big local personal appearance of The-Man-Who.

There are the personality packagers from the advertising agencies and the public relations firms; the speech-writers and the idea men who must produce instant new — or at least new-sounding — gimmicky catch-phrases for every major appearance, and the security men.

In and out of town, in preparation for the Great Visitation, have come and gone the Advice Men, the Road Men, the Transport Men and the Joe-Job Men.

These, if you know what you're looking for and where you'll likely spot them, are all in view, the big backup apparatus for the Great Man.

What you don't see is the Indispensable Invisibles.

The ladies.

It was Olive Diefenbaker who first tapped the political potential of women like an oil driller bringing in a gusher.

Back in the 1962 campaign she prevailed on the party pros to run a full-page ad in the local newspaper when Dief was coming in.

Somebody with a flair for inspired public relations — perhaps it was Olive D. since it WAS basically her idea — decided the ad would be in the form of an invitation to "Come One and All to Meet Olive and John and Please Bring the Kids."

It had the warmth of the personal touch and it brought out the crowds as never before.

And who would spot it and assess its tremendous vote potential but Olive Diefenbaker's great rival, Maryon Pearson, wife of the then Liberal Opposition leader.

What could there be warmer and more personal than an invitation in print, she wondered.

How to issue it?

How else but to harness the power of a woman and a phone?

And so the Phone Blitz was born and remains alive, well and flourishing to this very campaign day.

Since the initial blitz of '62, the Female Shock Troops of both parties have been busy through every campaign blitzing the country and preserving Canada's international standing as the world's greatest gabbers.

It had become standard practice by the '63 campaign with Conservative National Headquarters here putting out a bulletin to constituency chairmen all across the country.

It read: "The leader's visit to your area should be well advertised in advance in the dailies and weeklies; the copy taking the form of a warm invitation to come and meet and hear him. And experience has shown that a sure way to get a big turnout is to have a good, hard-working committee of women phoning every single name in the book and issuing a warm personal invitation a few days in advance."

The blitz can start small. And the trick is to build it.

How?

Spot the enthusiasts, the dedicated — women who say sure, they'd love to come along — and ask them to phone their friends and bring them too.

★ ★ ★

Sort of an electronic chain letter operation.

Like they once sang in South Pacific, "there's nothing like a dame" — especially one with a cause and a phone within reach.

It's a kind of female political bucketshop.

Instead of stock salesmen flogging a moose pasture over the phone as the greatest strike since Lake Shore or Hollinger, you've got dames yacking all across town talking up the party leader's coming appearance, his hotline dates, his pancake breakfasts, college confrontations, barbecue picnics, shopping plaza capers and even those set platform speeches.

The politically-motivated dame: greatest aid and comfort the phone company and the party organizer ever had.

Fifteen To Pro

By ROBERT CAHN
Sixth of a Series

Fifteen nations already have established marine national parks or reserves, and many more are making plans to protect their natural underwater and shore areas from exploitation by setting them aside as parks.

Countries hope to save their undersea and shore areas from amateur and commercial collectors of corals, from tropical fishes and other forms of marine life, as well as from pollution, dredging, construction and mineral extraction.

Although a number of nations had designated marine coastal parks or seashores before 1962, and some underwater parks had been declared, the creation of national parks underwater has largely come in the past decade.

Other new aspects of national parks given special consideration at the conference were using park systems for environmental education and seeking solutions to overcrowding with new methods of transportation.

At the first world conference on national parks at Seattle in 1962, Tsuyoshi Tamura, the "father" of Japan's national parks, successfully led an effort to pass a resolution urgently inviting nations of the world to create marine parks or reserves and defend underwater areas of special significance.

Japan's leadership in the establishment of marine park areas was spurred by the need to protect the abundance of unique underwater areas around its islands. Dr. Tamura also saw the underwater areas as potential recreation sites, which were already far too limited for the needs of the people.

Aided by a 1970 amendment to the Japanese national parks law providing for marine parks, Japan now has 82 protected marine areas within the boundaries of eight national parks and nine quasi-national parks.

Most are small, extending from shoreline about a mile or so. But one park being planned on Okinawa will extend more than 10,000 acres

Zealous Official

Washing Oregon's

Oregonians are accustomed to having L. B. Day tell them how to conduct themselves in the wilderness, that they should cut down on use of automobiles, and that loggers better not muddy up Oregon streams as they harvest timber.

But in his zeal to protect Oregon's environment, Day has even taken on the U.S. government, and won concessions given no other state.

Day, 40, a former labor union business agent, is the director of the Oregon Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ). In his one year on the job he has shaped broad new state policy in the field.

The DEQ now has the power to regulate such diverse activities as freeway construction, car parking structures, logging, and garbage disposal.

Armed with new laws from an environmentally conscious state legislature, Oregon has embarked on a program of pollution abatement which Day says puts the state many years ahead of any other.

"We step on toes," Day admits, "but we don't care. We've got a job to do. We enforce the environmental laws, because we shouldn't do any less."

Day's confrontation with federal officials came over the requirement that industries would have to get a waste water discharge permit from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) as well as from the Oregon DEQ.

★ ★ ★

Fifteen Nations Have Underwater Parks To Protect Marine Life from Exploitation

Aided by a 1970 amendment to the Japanese national parks law providing for marine parks, Japan now has 82 protected marine areas within the boundaries of eight national parks and nine quasi-national parks.

Most are small, extending from shoreline about a mile or so. But one park being planned on Okinawa will extend more than 10,000 acres and include Japan's biggest and most beautiful coral reef.

Yosemite Falls does not change, but much else is changing in California's Yosemite National Park. Enormous amount of auto and camper traffic is endangering the ecology and already some roads have been closed and free shuttle buses have been instituted.

All underwater life is strictly protected; no commercial, sport or spear fishing is allowed within the marine park areas.

More than a million people visited Japanese marine parks last year. They were permitted to snorkel or scuba dive, or could observe from glass-bottomed boats, many of which are operated by local fishermen, whose agreement is necessary before areas are designated.

Buck Island National Monument in the U.S. Virgin Islands near St. Croix, with its marked underwater trail, was the first American area designated specifically for its underwater life.

More than a dozen federal and state underwater areas have been set aside, including the large Dry Tortuga reefs at Fort Jefferson National Monument, and John Pennekamp Coral Reef State Park, all in Florida.

Visitors do not have to be experienced swimmers or divers to plunge into the exotic world of colorful fish and marine formations. Although glass-bottomed boats are popular in Japan's marine park areas, at the U.S. underwater sites most visitors choose to float on top of the water, using a glass mask and breathing through a snorkel tube.

Kenya established the Watamu and Malindi marine parks four years ago just in time to save the spectacular coral formations and aquatic life from commercial fishermen and coral collectors. The two parks also added to the area's tourist attractions.

In South Africa, a narrow strip 48 miles long, one-half mile seaward and one-half mile landward, within Tsitsikama National Park is given complete protection. Park authorities limit the number of visitors within the park 2,000 at any one time.

The Philippines has marine parks at Lingayen Bay National Seashore and Hundred Island National Park. Parks director Jesus B. Alvarez, with the assistance of Charles Lindbergh and son Jon, expects soon to add 11 new marine areas.

Australia with Heron Island National Park on the Great Barrier Reef, Costa Rica with its new Cahuita and Tortuguero national parks (the latter to preserve breeding areas of endangered turtles), Israel, Surinam, Mexico, St. Vincent, Trinidad and Tobago are among countries that have established marine parks.

While encouraged over the recent activity, G. Carleton Ray of Johns Hopkins University, one of the leading marine ecologists, warns of problems ahead on two fronts.

"The national parks philosophy is not acceptable for oceans because it cannot take in entire marine ecosystems," says Dr. Ray.

"Marine parks are but a small fraction of the problem of marine conservation — a portion that could become irrelevant unless we achieve broader respect for preservation of the health of the oceans. And unless we tie preservation of marine parks to proper land use, which is rarely done, we will have the areas spoiled by pollution and agricultural runoff."

Another subject neglected 10 years ago but playing a major role at the world parks conference was environmental education. Park officials all over the world have begun to realize that the great natural areas can be educational laboratories.

But even more, they recognize the part parks can play in arousing concern among citizens for protecting and appreciating their natural, historical, and cultural heritage.

The U.S. National Park Service tries to combine these two objectives by providing a curriculum for teaching park and environmental values in schools, and also by setting up environmental study areas at most national parks.

New Zealand takes the classroom to the park. The parks authority has set up a lodge on Lake Rotoiti at Nelson Lakes National Park, where nearby secondary school students get a week of environmental education during each of two years.

And Israel has within its national parks 12 field study centres where children and their families may come to learn national and natural history.

Kenya's system of wildlife clubs has spread throughout the country's secondary schools. The clubs are helping to build an appreciation of natural values.

Thousands of schoolchildren each year are taken to the Nairobi National Park only four miles from the centre of town, where they hear a talk from a park warden, visit a touch-see-and-hear environmental education exhibit, and go on a bus safari in the park to observe the wildlife.

"The more money we spend on environmental eduction, the less we have to spend on protecting the parks," says Kenya park director Perez Olindo.

Environmental education, however presented, is especially necessary for countries where national parks are supported only by an elite minority and used mostly by foreign visitors.

Unless leaders can build more popular support for parks and encourage citizen visits, governments will not be able to set aside or preserve national parks or nature reserves.

Indeed, a number already set aside are being threatened with ruin by the more immediate demands of agriculture and development, and can be saved only by public pressure in the political arena.

The need to find new methods of moving large numbers of people through a national park without disturbing the ecosystem or the visitor's enjoyment of his encounter with the natural setting has been another principal concern of conference participants.

The U.S., Japan, and England have general overcrowding problems at their national parks. Some nations such as South Africa have crowding pressure at some areas.

And most of the nations represented at the conference saw a need in the future either to place restrictions on use of else improving transportation problems within the parks.

But because of the expense of building new transportation systems, and a lack of knowledge of their social and environmental effects, progress in solving transport problems has been slow.

Participants from the Peak District National Park in England told how a minibus system helps move people in the park, which is within a two-hour drive for 17 million people. The only road going through the Goyt Valley is blocked on weekends, and a bus serves those who do not choose to walk.

Yosemite Park superintendent Lynn Thompson reported that on days when 20,000 people are in Yosemite Valley, the free shuttle buses record 60,000 rides — proof that people will leave their cars. One main road has been closed, and another made one-way, to restrict auto traffic.

Restrictions on trailer use have been placed in effect at Mesa Verde and Glacier National Parks; buses will replace private cars for a section of Grand Canyon's South Rim Drive next year; and restrictions are being considered on large camper vehicles on the narrow going to the Sun Road at Glacier.

Perhaps the newest activity reported at the parks conference was the success of walking safaris in Zambia's South Luanga Valley National Park. A concessionaire led some parties through the lion-elephant-rhino-buffalo-frequented park on three- to seven-day trips on foot.

In the several years they have been conducted, only one animal had to be shot — an elephant that charged a group of walkers. The park is planning to allow the concessionaire to quadruple the walking safaris next year.

Zealous Official Gets His Way

Washington Forced To Toe Oregon's Environment Line

By CLARENCE ZAITZ, from Salem, Ore.

Oregonians are accustomed to having L. B. Day tell them how to conduct themselves in the wilderness, that they should cut down on use of automobiles, and that loggers better not muddy up Oregon streams as they harvest timber.

But in his zeal to protect Oregon's environment, Day has even taken on the U.S. government, and won concessions given no other state.

Day, 40, a former labor union business agent, is the director of the Oregon Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ). In his one year on the job he has shaped broad new state policy in the field.

The DEQ now has the power to regulate such diverse activities as freeway construction, car parking structures, logging, and garbage disposal.

Armed with new laws from an environmentally conscious state legislature, Oregon has embarked on a program of pollution abatement which Day says puts the state many years ahead of any other.

"We step on toes," Day admits, "but we don't care. We've got a job to do. We enforce the environmental laws, because we shouldn't do any less."

Day's confrontation with federal officials came over the requirement that industries would have to get a waste water discharge permit from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) as well as from the Oregon DEQ.

Because the state's regulations are tougher, Day told EPA's William Ruckelshaus, its permit should suffice.

There was finally agreement over that one, and a single permit — issued by Oregon — is now the rule.

Look what else Day has done to stir up his antagonists:

- He has told the Army Corps of Engineers that it must have state permits before it can build or modify dams on rivers in Oregon.
- He told the Oregon highway division that because highways are a source of air pollution, the DEQ must approve any new highway construction plans.
- Day has proposed a parking tax in Portland as a means to discourage auto use.

Gov. Tom McCall, who is responsible for Day's appointment, has taken a lot of heat as a result. "He's ruffled the fur the wrong way in a lot of high places," the governor admits, "but I support him."

During his disputes with the army engineers, for example, Day said "If the army engineers are pro-conservation, then Dracula was a vegeterian."

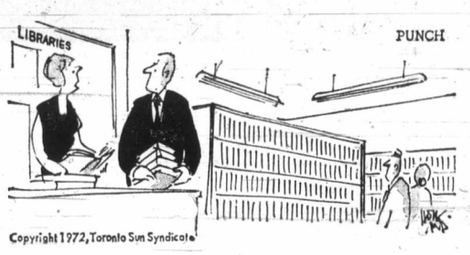

McCall later told federal officials, "The language, I'll say, was a little too colorful, and I told them if you want me to apologize for the language, I will. But not for what he is doing."

What Day was doing was trying to get the government to modify Columbia River dams to reduce the nitrogen saturation of the water, which had been killing migrating salmon and steelhead.

State Sen. L. W. Newbry, a long-time power in the state legislature said recently that constituents think Day is "the No. 1 bad guy in Oregon . . . and the No. 2 bad buy is Gov. McCall, for having put him there."

Day's reply to all the criticism: "People don't have to like me. I only want them to respect me."

"Do you realize that if books on the environment continue to proliferate at the present rate, then by the year 2000 . . ."

LUBANG ISLAND, Phillipines — A combined Japanese-Phillippines search party widened its hunt Monday for one of two holdout Japanese soldiers authorities say may have killed and wounded 130 persons in a 27-year-old private war.

Bedsheet Escape First for Tombs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Seven inmates at the Manhattan house of detention for men sawed through two sets of bars and climbed down a 60-foot rope of bedsheets from a fourth floor window Monday in the first successful escape in the 32-year history of the institution.

Correction commissioner Benjamin Malcolm called the escape a "well-planned, well conceived plot" that apparently had been developing for several days.

But Leo Zeferetti, president of the correction officers benevolent association, blamed the breakout from the facility, better known as The Tombs, on "a lack of security measures."

Turkey Tetrazzini ....Terrific!

Buffet Supper Crowd Pleaser

Turkey Tetrazzini makes a terrific crowd pleaser, and a favourite of many hostesses. For buffet suppers, this attractive, and tasty dish serves between 12 and 16 portions, depending on the size of servings.

Turkey Tetrazzini can be prepared ahead of time, so it leaves the hostess with more time to enjoy the company of her guests rather than spending it in the kitchen.

TURKEY TETRAZZINI

1 lb. spaghetti
1 cup chopped green pepper
1½ cup diced celery
¾ cup chopped onion
½ lb. mushrooms, fresh or canned
¾ cup butter
¼ cup flour
2 cups milk
½ lb. sharp cheese
2 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1½ cups diced cooked turkey
¼ cup sherry
¾ cup Parmesan cheese

Cook spaghetti according to package directions. Prepare sauce; cook celery, green pepper, onion and mushrooms in the butter until the onion is just transparent. Add flour and blend well. Add milk all at once, cook, stirring constantly until uniformly thickened. Blend in cheese, salt, pepper, Worcestershire, turkey, and sherry. Stir until cheese is melted; heat to serving temperature but avoid overheating. Serve over hot spaghetti and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. If desired, place in 13x9x2-inch pan and place in 350F oven for 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 12 to 16 servings.

Pasta, A Great Idea For 'Before Pay-Day Menus

Pasta is one of the greatest budget stretchers. With a little imagination, and a selection different noodles and pasta, a budget dish, like a casserole, can be presented in various styles for each day of the week, and yet be economical at the same time. Most of us seem to stay with the same favourites like macaroni, spaghetti and noodles. And yet there are many other types that can be interchanged with a pasta recipe, and the results are sensational, both in appearance and taste. Try experimenting with flying saucers, sea shells, bows, turrets, lasagna, alphabets, and other varieties you'll find in the pasta and noodle shelf. It gives a change in pace to budget dishes.

Preparation of Pasta and Noodles

The directions for cooking pasta are usually found on the package. But in case there aren't any details given, follow these instructions for palatable dishes.

Cook pasta in a large pot, allowing about 4 quarts of rapidly boiling water and 4 tsps. of salt for 2 to 3 cups of the uncooked macaroni, spaghetti or noodles. One tablespoon of oil added to the water will prevent boiling over, and also helps to stop the pasta from sticking together. Drop the pasta into the boiling water. If long sticks are used, break into short lengths, or leave spaghetti sticks whole and place one end in the boiling water and gradually coil in the remainder as the sticks soften. Lasagna type pasta requires long pans (use a roasting pan with a rack on the bottom). Bring back to a boil as rapidly as possible; keep at an active boil. If you find it necessary to add more water make sure that it is boiling water you add. Most products require 9 to 12 minutes or until tender, some may require longer, but do not overcook!

Test for doneness by using a fork. Pasta should be firm, but tender. To stop pasta cooking immediately, add one half cup cold water. Drain and rinse with cold water; drain again. Remember in most recipes, spaghetti, macaroni and noodles may be used interchangeably.

Good Tasting Bread —Homemade Style

"The good old days" . . . there are many parts of the gone-by era that can never be revived, but in the same token there are many advantages of living in the present day. One of the wonderful memories of the past is homemade bread and buns — their mouthwatering-aroma and downright good flavour . . . that very special crunchy crust and 'meaty' texture. A part of the past, true, and yet possible today, if you are willing to spend extra time and attention in baking the buns and bread yourself. The rewards are good tasting bread. And with the 20th century convenience of a freezer, part of your baking can be frozen for future use.

GRANDMA'S WHITE BREAD

2 cups milk, scalded
3 tbsp. shortening
2 tbsp. sugar
2½ tsp. salt
1 pkt. active dry yeast
2 tbsp. lukewarm water
6 cups (approx.) all purpose flour, sifted

Combine scalded milk, shortening, sugar and salt; cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in lukewarm water; stir and combine with cooled mixture; add enough flour to make a stiff dough; mix thoroughly. Turn out on a lightly floured board and knead about 10 minutes or until smooth and satiny. Place dough in warm greased bowl; brush surface very lightly with melted shortening to prevent crust formation; cover lightly and let rise in a warm place (80 to 85 deg. F) about 2 hours or until dough is doubled in bulk and will retain an impression when pressed with the finger. Punch dough down thoroughly in the bowl; fold the edges in toward the centre and turn over so that the smooth side is on top; cover and let rise again about ½ hour or until dough has almost doubled in bulk. Turn out on board, divide into two equal portions and mold into balls, let rest, closely covered for 10 minutes. Shape into loaves. Place in two greased loaf pans (about 9½ x 5½ inches); brush tops with melted shortening; cover and let rise about 1 hour or until double in bulk. Bake in hot oven (400F) for 40 to 45 minutes. Makes 2 one pound loaves.

Oilman Blasts Pipeline Critics

SASKATOON (CP) — D. B. Furlong, managing director of the Canadian Petroleum Association, said Monday the Canadian oil and gas industry has been subject to "some almost incredible attacks" by academic prophets of gloom and doom.

"It doesn't seem to matter to these supposedly well-educated people that these assumptions on which their supposedly-scholarly opinions are based are almost entirely wrong," Furlong told the annual western meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

He mentioned no one by name, but said some of the research being done is financed, directly and indirectly, by the federal government.

"Insofar as they raise questions for consideration and discussion and do so responsibly, it's fine. But I do wish we could somehow quit using our own money to support people who seem to wish only to destroy us."

His comments were aimed in particular at critics of the proposed Mackenzie Valley pipeline to ship oil and gas resources out of the Arctic.

He said opponents of the pipeline will have every chance to make their arguments when an application to build the pipeline is made and hearings are held by the National Energy Board.

Financial considerations, environmental factors and the potential benefits for Canada will be meticulously examined when this occurs, he argued.

He said exploration in the Mackenzie Valley Delta now has advanced far enough to indicate that enough reserves may be found to warrant such an application next year.

In this case, the hearings would almost certainly not conclude until 1974 or later.

He suggested that critics prepare their case for the hearings by gathering accurate information and making up their minds whether they are "serious-minded university people or half-baked politicians."

Afton View

Too Early On Mine

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Afton Mines copper ore body near Kamloops, may never be developed into a mine, Mr. Justice Thomas Berger was told Monday in British Columbia Supreme Court.

John Bouck, acting for Canadian Exploration Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Placer Development Ltd. of Vancouver, made these comments in his closing argument.

Vancouver-based Teck Corp. Ltd. is seeking to set aside an exploration and development agreement signed by Afton directors with the Placer unit.

Bouck said that even though a great amount of ore has been found on the Afton property it is too early to say that a mine will be developed.

He said a report by a Placer engineering official indicates that the present proven ore reserves on the Afton property are no greater than 15 million tons.

More Wheat To China?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government report said Sunday that China may have to buy more wheat from the United States to offset drought losses and to help feed a growing population which is adding 15 million new appetites a year.

The agriculture department said China bought 4.3 million tons, about 160 million bushels, of wheat by Oct. 1 for delivery through next summer, including 400,000 tons, 15 million bushels, from the U.S.

Manufacturer Scolds Querelous Quebecers

MONTREAL (CP) — Gerard Filion of Montreal, immediate past president of the Canadian Manufactuer's Association, made a plea Monday for tranquillity and a little more common sense in Quebec.

"It is vitally important that the Quebec economy be revitalized," he told members of the Canadian Manufacturers of Chemical Specialties Association.

"It has suffered greatly from uncertainty these past few years. It is not the bombs which have scared investors. It is instead the inability of our own leaders.

"What scares those who save and what makes investors ultra-prudent is the inability of public authorities to set a clear and firm course of action."

Filion, president of Marine Industries Ltd., said Quebec meets all requirements for prosperity — plentiful natural resources, an important consumer market, an outlet to the ocean and capital reserves.

"What we need is order to succeed in a population which is more aware of economic problems, a ruling class which is less querulous, intellectuals less lost in the clouds and politicians who know where they go. In effect, a little more tranquillity and a little more common sense."

Filion said the vast majority of Quebecers believe that belonging to the "North American economic complex has been and continues to be beneficial."

Some supporting the separatist option, convinced that only a sovereign state can guarantee the political and cultural growth of French-Canadians, even are ready to accept a temporary drop in standard of living as their sacrifice.

"They forget, however, that a decrease in the standard of living would not have the same consequences for all classes of citizens," he added.

Those entrenched in impregnable positions, such as functionaries, teachers, artists, students and the small-town or neighborhood bourgeois, would benefit. Factory workers in the main would lose their jobs as a result of business recession.

"The cost of separating will not be shared equally among social levels; some risk nothing, while others will lose everything."

Telecommunications

Rate Increase Sought

OTTAWA (CP) — CN-CP Telecommunications asked the Canadian Transport Commission Monday for approval of rate increase for their Telex, private wire and broadband services.

In most cases, the increases, if approved, will be the first in several years for the pooled services provided to businesses by the Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific Ltd. The last Telex toll charge revision, for example, was 16 years ago.

Requests for revisions were made last year, but the hearings Monday are the first on the proposed increases.

CN-CP Telecommunications officials said at the first session of the hearing that rate increases are necessary to help offset capital expansion costs.

Sabres Away to Flying Start On Strength of Young Scorers

MONTREAL (CP) — The surprising Buffalo Sabres, almost doormats in their first two years in the National Hockey League's East Division, have forsaken the downtrodden image.

The prime reason for their early-season success is the offensive power displayed by one of the most exciting young forward lines in the league.

The Sabres currently share first place in the East Division with Detroit Red Wings. Both clubs have 12 points and both are unbeaten.

The more mature Red Wings have registered six straight wins, while the Sabres remain unbeaten after seven starts with five wins and two ties.

Centre Gilbert Perreault, 22, right winger Rene Robert, 23, and left winger Rick Martin, 21, have combined for 19 goals, 27 assists and 46 points to lead the Sabres. This represents 62.2 per cent of the club's total point output.

In three games last week, the trio accounted for 12 of Buffalo's 14 goals and 29 of 34 scoring points.

Perreault led all scorers with 11 points — three goals and eight assists—and heads the scoring parade with 19 points. Robert's 10-point performance — two goals and eight assists — vaulted him into second spot with 15 points, one more than veteran left winger John Bucyk of Boston Bruins.

Bucyk shares the lead in assists — 13 — with Perreault, while Boston centre Fred Stanfield is fourth in the race with 13 points on five goals and eight assists.

Martin, with seven goals and one assist last week, including the season's first four-goal game, shares fifth place with Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks. Both players have 12 points, but Martin is the goal-scoring leader with nine.

Ken Dryden has combined with rookie Michel Plasse to lead the league in goaltending. After seven games, the two Montreal netminders have a 1.57 goals-against average and Dryden has two shutouts in six starts.

Buffalo veteran Roger Crozier, who has played in all seven of his club's games, has a 1.71 mark, slightly better than the Detroit pair, Roy Edwards and Denis DeJordy. The Detroit goalies have a 1.83 average.

Canucks Upset Bruins After Lineup Juggled

Vancouver Canucks, Sunday, added to the evidence that this is so far a different-than-expected National Hockey League season.

They did it against the Stanley Cup champions, coming from behind to edge the Bruins, 5-4, for their first away-from-home victory of the season and the first-ever points they have managed on Boston ice.

A goalkeeping change made after Bruins had scored three of the four first-period goals and liberal use of defencemen as forwards, were credited with the turn-around.

Ed Dyck, former member of Calgary Centennials of the Western Canada Hockey League who was drafted in 1970, stopped the Bruins for more than 39 minutes after he had replaced started Dunc Wilson in the Vancouver goal.

Dyck stopped 15 shots and didn't yield until Bobby Orr beat him with a long screened shot 41 seconds from time. By then, Canucks, who surged from behind with the only four goals of the second period, had a two-goal margin.

It was the only point for Orr, who saw action only on power plays and as a penalty-killer in the first period and sat out all of th second period. He played most of the third period but didn't show his old-time skating ability.

"I guess he isn't," commented Vancouver-forward Bobby Schmautz. "He took off once in the third period and I caught him. I never did that before."

Schmautz also scored twice and made an assist in the second-period rally.

League scoring champion Phil Esposito managed only one assist and his line had a rough night of it against a checking line of Jim Hargreaves, Dale Tallon and Gregg Boddy—all defencemen.

Victory enabled Canucks to again pass Boston and move into fifth place in the East Division but it brought no gain on the unbeaten co-leaders.

Detroit Red Wings, the only NHL club with a perfect record, stayed a point ahead of Buffalo's surprising Sabres by beating down Toronto Maple Leafs, 6-2, with Marcel Dionne, who also had two assists, and Al Karlander both scoring twice.

Sabres set a club record by going unbeaten through a seventh consecutive game, slamming Atlanta Flames with Rick Martin scoring four times and Gil Perreault getting two goals and four assists.

Buffalo has won five games and tied two had remained a point ahead of Montreal Canadiens, also unbeaten but tied three times. Canadiens, getting fine goalkeeping from Ken Dryden, got a 1-1 sawoff with the Rangers in New York.

Bears Overpower Vikings In Ferocious NFL Struggle

Chicago's fired-up Bears kept the National Football League pot boiling on Monday night by edging Minnesota Vikings, 13-10.

Defeat in the ferociously-played game dropped the highly-favored Vikings into last place in the National Conference Central Division, the Bears moving up a notch.

Bobby Douglass, the quarterback whose passing yardage is less than he has gained carrying the ball, kept the Bears on the ground and ran right at the tough Minnesota line. The bears used 52 ground plays with fullback Jim Harrison carrying 31 times for 103 yards, Douglass 11 times for 66 yards and Cyril Pinder 10 times for 31 yards.

Douglass, second leading rusher in his conference, now has a season's total of 475 yards, only 21 from the record for quarterbacks set last season by Greg Landry.

Vikings had the ball for only 41 seconds in the first quarter but managed to start the second quarter as 7-0 leaders because of a 44-yard pass from Fran Tarkenton to Jhon Gilliam. But the Vikings ran only 11 plays in the first half and left at the intermission as 7-10 trailers.

Bears got their points on a field goal by Mac Percival and, oddly, on a short pass from Douglass to Harrison when Douglass was cut off trying to run the ball in.

Fred Cox tied it with a field goal but the Bears, who were successful when Douglass ran the ball from field-goal formation and again when punter Bobby Joe Green passed on fourth down and long yardage, got the winning points on a field goal by Percival. It came after an interception by Dick Butkus.

Vikings got within five yards in the late going, had an end-zone completion ruled not a touchdown because Tarkenton crossed the scrimmage line before throwing and finally conceded when Cox missed a 27-yard field-goal try with 10 seconds left.

Sunday's bill of fare was also nothing short of excellent. There were more upsets, and several others were avoided on late and spectacular plays. Nine of the 12 games were decided by seven or fewer points, including three by one point, and there was a surprising tie. The highlights:

● Los Angeles Rams slipped past Cincinnati Bengals, 15-12, when David Ray kicked a 32-yard field goal after time had run out. It was set up by a 15-yard personal-foul penalty on what would have been the last play of the game;

● New York Jets got past Baltimore Colts, 24-20, in a sensational finish. Just after the Colts had gone ahead on a pass from Marty Domres to Jim O'Brien, Joe Namath threw a long desperation pass up for grabs. Two of the Colts camped under it but the ball hit Charlie Stukes on the shoulder pads and bounced up to be grabbed off by Eddie Bell, who raced between Stukes and Jerry Logan and into the end zone for an 83-yard touchdown. Only 63 seconds were left but the Colts almost made it back, missing by two yards on a long last-play completion by Domres;

● Philadelphia Eagles moved out of the winless class by stunning Kansas City Chiefs, 21-20. Eagles took a 21-0 lead on three touchdown throws by Pete Liske in the first 20 minutes, then held on to make it just enough;

● Miami Dolphins had unexpected trouble with the improved Buffalo Bills but finally prevailed, 24-23, mainly because of the running of Larry Csonka, who packed the ball 107 yards in 18 carries. Bills took a 13-7 lead into the second half;

● New York Giants spotted St. Louis Cardinals a 21-7 lead, then came back to score a 27-21 win. Pete Gogolak climaxed the comeback with 10 and 42-yard field goals.

Eye Injured

Gordon Banks, above, rated the number one soccer goalkeeper in the world, suffered a serious injury in an auto accident Sunday and doctors are fighting to save his right eye at a hospital in Stoke-On-Trent, England. Doctors will not know for a week to 10 days whether Banks' eye will be saved.

Henderson, Esposito Win Cars

TORONTO (CP) — Paul Henderson and Phil Esposito will both be honored with new cars as an award for their efforts in the recent Canada-Soviet hockey series.

Labatt's Ontario Breweries Ltd., announced Monday that Henderson won a popularity contest conducted by the company, but his victory was by such a narrow margin that it was decided to give Esposito, the runner-up, a new car as well.

The company did not release the exact vote count, but said that there was a difference of only one per cent between the Henderson and Esposito votes.

All Canadians were invited to send in votes for the player they thought was the most valuable among the National Hockey League stars who played for Team Canada against the Soviets.

Esposito, Boston Bruins centre, led in the balloting after the first four games of the series in Canada, but Henderson, Toronto Maple Leafs left winger, moved up after scoring the winning goal in the last three games in Moscow.

Roadrunners Join Battle For Colonist Cup Berth

While Oak Bay, Victoria and Mount View have captured most attention this season, the Roadrunners have been quietly stacking away the points.

And Monday, the Roadrunners showed they are strong contenders for a berth in the Colonist Cup final on Nov. 10 when they defeated Oak Bay Bays, 4-2, on their home field.

The win kept them in a second-place tie with defending champions Victoria Tyees, who crushed luckless Esquimalt, 6-1, at Vic High.

And, with three games to go, the two schools moved to within three points of the Bays.

Key games will be this Friday when Roadrunners play Mount View Hornets, who, with Tyees lost points for using overage players, and, in an 8 p.m. match at Royal Athletic Park, Victoria takes on Oak Bay.

It was the seventh straight game without a defeat for Roadrunners, who are coached jointly by Henry Kuyvenhoven and Tony Fantillo.

Play was more even in the second half and, after 25 minutes, Oak Bay came back strongly with goals by Robert Gutierrez and Peter Saunders within the space of a minute to cut the score to 3-2.

However, the Reynolds defence held and Bill Beischer scored the 4-2 goal late in the match.

Striker Steve Forslund took his total this season to 20 goals when he scored twice in the Tyees' victory. Danny Wickens, John McGuire, Greg Mellish and Wayne Long got the other goals and Dale Roberts scored for Esquimalt. It was only 1-0 for the Tyees at half time.

After an even first 40 minutes, Brock Coupar scored for Mt. Doug and Bob Lee tied it up for Claremont three minutes minutes later.

It took Spartans until the 43-minute mark of the second half to get ahead. That's when Chris Finestone scored and Lee got his second goal a minute later.

The match between Belmont and Mount View was postponed until Wednesday.

Dolphins Place Five On All-Star Team

Victoria Dolphins placed five players on the B.C. Big Four Junior Football League All-Stars when the selection was announced Sunday.

Dolphins named were guard Wayne Scotney, split end Jack Munch, halfback Sean Flynn and, on defence, linebacker Rod Crowe and defence-back Ron Tayler. Flynn placed third in the league in individual scoring with 36 points.

The only Dolphin player selected in the club's first season in the league last year, Bruce Paisley, now plays for Meralomas and was one of 11 players from the Vancouver club named to the 1972 all-stars.

North Shore Cougars had four players chosen and there were two each from Burnaby Spartans and Vancouver Blue Bombers.

Meralomas advanced to the western final with a 24-8 victory over Calgary Colts, the first time since 1961 a B.C. club has accomplished the feat.

Quarterback Dan Smith of the Meralomas, the league's most valuable player this season, was the star on offence. Smith scored one touchdown on a short plunge and clicked for a 62-yard pass-and-run touchdown by flanker Andy Perry.

Whalers Stop Saints

Boston Whalers, generally favored to take it all in the World Hockey Association, moved into second place in the Eastern Division Monday night by rolling to a 5-1 win over Minnesota Fighting Saints.

Played in Boston, the game drew 11,426 fans. Goals were scored by Boston's Larry Pleau, Tom Earl, Terry Caffery, Tom Sheehy and John Danby and George Konik of the Saints.

On Sunday, Chris Bordeleau continued his fine play for Winnipeg Jets by scoring twice in a 6-3 triumph over Philadelphia's winless Blazers. They were the seventh and eighth scoring shots of the season for the former Chicago Black Hawk centre, who left the NHL with Bobby Hull, who is still prevented from lining up with the Jets because of court action.

There were 6394 fans on hand in Quebec Sunday to watch Ottawa Nationals upset Les Nordiques, 3-2. In New York, 4411 turned out to see Raiders lose a 5-4 decision to Minnesota and there was a smaller crowd in Los Angeles, where Chicago Cougars bested the Sharks, 4-2.

Next game: Today—New Westminster at Saskatoon.

This will be a long week for Victoria Cougars.

That's the word from coach Mitch Pechet.

Pechet was disappointed in his team's showing in weekend games with Vancouver Nats but with no games until Friday feels he has time to make the necessary adjustments.

"We should have won both games but that's history," Pechet said Monday. "I plan to make a number of changes, particularly on defence before the next game."

Pechet added that he was shuffling the defensive pairings and some of the forward lines, starting on Monday at practice.

On Saturday, the Cougar forwards were guilty in the 4-2 loss at Memorial Arena and on Sunday it was the defence which drew the major share of the blame.

Cougars frittered away the lead three times to lose, 7-6, before 1005 Western Canada Hockey League fans at Pacific Coliseum in Vancouver.

Victoria jumped to a 2-0 lead after only eight minutes and led 2-1 after the first period.

Nats outscored Cougars, 4-2, in the second period to take a one-goal edge but Cougars tallied twice in the first half of third period to go on top, 6-5.

But a number of defensive errors allowed Nats to score twice in the last four minutes for the victory.

Cutler S By Boo

Cutler, a Simon Fraser Graduate from Victoria, kicked a record six field goals and Wilkinson set him up with fine quarterbacking to sneak Eskimos past Saskatchewan Roughriders, 25-23.

Defeat eliminated the Riders from the first-place battle, which will now almost certainly be decided on Oct. 29 in Winnipeg when the co-leaders meet for the final time in scheduled play.

Both have won in previous meetings, Bombers rolling to a 49-16 triumph at home but losing, 15-24, in Edmonton.

Huge Crowd Greets Baseball Champs Tenace Named Top Player in Series

Baseball's world champion Oakland Athletics paraded before thousands of wildly-cheering fans Monday to be honored as winners of the 1972 world series.

The Athletics paraded 15 blocks to Oakland city hall in antique autos that matched the mustaches worn by many of the players who had beaten Cincinnati Reds 3-2 in the series' seventh game Sunday.

The crowd, estimated by police at 250,000 persons, paid tribute to the team which brought the San Francisco Bay area its first-ever major sports championship.

Owner Charles O. Finley rode near the head of the parade and at the city hall ceremony, he received a plaque bearing the key to the city and engraved pictures of a baseball player and "Charlie O", the team's mule mascot.

A plaque for manager Dick Williams was inscribed: "To the Genius Manager of the A's."

There was an engraved pewter plate for every player and the batboy got a 15-inch trophy.

The Athletics credited their triumph to good relief pitching and clutch hitting — the combination that won four of the seven games, including the deciding seventh contest.

Rollie Fingers provided the pitching and Gene Tenace, the Oakland hitting hero, delivered another two clutch hits in the final game at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium.

Tenace was later named winner of a new automobile as the outstanding player in the annual classic.

With the Athletics' top slugger, Reggie Jackson, on crutches, the 26-year-old miners son from Ohio provided the batting punch that brought Oakland the championship.

He joined a list of baseball immortals, including Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, as the only players to hit four home runs in a series.

Tenace batted .348, knocked in nine of the 16 Oakland runs and accounted for 30 total bases during the series.

He would have had a chance at a fifth home run had Williams not pulled him for a pinch-runner in the sixth inning, after Tenace had doubled to left field, scoring Oakland's second run.

"Sure I was disappointed," Tenace said later. "But the skipper said otherwise and this has been the way our club has gone all season."

Al Lewis, who replaced Tenace, scored what proved to be the winning run when Sal Bando doubled to deep centre field.

Williams, who had been questioned for his many line-up changes during the first six games, made several against-the-book moves on Sunday.

He lifted starting pitcher John "Blue Moon" Odom in the fifth inning with the Athletics ahead, 1-0, and he purposely put the potential winning run on base in the eighth, when Reds had two men on and only one out.

That move paid off when Fingers retired Tony Perez on a sacrifice fly and got Denis Menke to pop up.

In the ninth inning, Fingers retired the first two batters on easy outs before giving Darrel Chaney first base by clipping the Red pitch-hitter on the ankle with a pitch.

That brought up the ever-dangerous Pete Rose, who had hit the ball well all afternoon. However, Fingers retired the Cincinnati captain when Rose hit the first pitch to left-fielder Joe Rudi for the final out.

"We've got the best pitching staff around," Odom said later, "and Rollie Fingers is the best relief pitcher in baseball."

"I guess you could say Oakland is the best this year," he said. "We got beaten four times by one run and we just couldn't get the big hit, and they did."

Bobby Tolan, the Cincinnati centre-fielder whose three-base error in the first inning led to Oakland's first run, contended the Reds are baseball's best.

Tolan, one of the hitting heroes in Saturday's 8-1 victory, said, "I'm not degrading the Athletics because they're a great ball club, but I still think we're better."

"This is two years out of three we've let our fans down," Tolan said, recalling the Reds' five-game series loss to Baltimore in 1970. "I apologize for that."

The victory was the first for the Athletics since 1930 when they were in Philadelphia. The club moved to Kansas City in 1955 and to Oakland in 1968.

Arrest Follows Threat

CINCINNATI — Police at Riverfront Stadium arrested a man Saturday after a threat had been made against catcher Gene Tenace of Oakland Athletics.

A woman told police that she had heard a man say 'if Gene Tenace hits a home run today, he won't walk out of this ballpark', while in a line buying tickets for the world series game.

Police arrested Elwood King, 32, and officers said he had a loaded pistol and a bottle of whiskey on him.

Cutler Sets Canadian Record By Booting Six Field Goals

Cutler, a Simon Fraser Graduate from Victoria, kicked a record six field goals and Wilkinson set him up with fine quarterbacking to sneak Eskimos past Saskatchewan Roughriders, 25-23.

Defeat eliminated the Riders from the first-place battle, which will now almost certainly be decided on Oct. 29 in Winnipeg when the co-leaders meet for the final time in scheduled play.

Both have won in previous meetings, Bombers rolling to a 49-16 triumph at home but losing, 15-24, in Edmonton.

The injury-riddled Eskimos never trailed. They closed off the Rider running attack and Wilkinson, who completed 13 of 21 passes although often chased all over the backfield, threw for one touchdown and kept getting Cutler close enough to get those three-pointers.

Cutler connected from 32 yards in the first quarter to start the scoring, hit from 31 and 20 yards in the second quarter, from 29 and 15 in the third and then from 31 yards at 11:50 of the fourth quarter to seal it.

Off to a slow start this season, Cutler now has 24 field goals and a big lead in the individual scoring race. His 19-point afternoon — the 19th point from a convert — boosted him to 116 points for the season, 22 ahead of Larry Robinson of Calgary.

Sunday's other game vastly improved the playoff chances of Toronto Argonauts, who can now become the third Eastern Conference playoff club by winning their remaining two games.

They reached that position when Montreal Alouettes failed at home, 7-17, against Ottawa Rough Riders, who fought hard to stay in the scrap for first place.

Argos, winners only three times this season, are two points behind Alouettes with a game in hand and the added advantage of having won the season's series between the two clubs. Argos are at home to Ottawa and play at Hamilton to complete their schedule. Montreal's remaining game is in Regina against Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Two touchdown plays in the first quarter between Rick Cassata and Hugh Oldham was enough for Riders, who recovered four Montreal fumbles and made six interceptions to help keep Alouettes at bay.

The game, played before only 13,923 fans, ended on a sour note when fans attacked game officials and referee Bill Dell received a punch on the mouth. Several Alouettes helped officials escape without serious hurts.

The incident was a culmination of bad feeling that had erupted earlier with a fight between Montreal and Ottawa supporters.

Knudson Earns Spot On Exemption List

Knudson, the 35-year-old professional from Toronto, picked up a $30,000 cheque after posting a brilliant 271 total in the $150,000 Kaiser International Open at Napa, California.

Knudson, a non-winner for two years, toured the 6810-yard Silverado Country Club course with a two-under-par 70 Sunday, to win the 72-hole event by three strokes.

The triumph, first since the 1970 Robinson Open for him, was particularly sweet for Knudson, who has had to scramble over the last two years.

In 1971 he barely earned the last exemption place — 60th spot on the money list — in the final tournament of the season. He was on the borderline, 58th place, this year.

The victory, however, assured him of a spot in all of next year's regular tournaments, including the Masters.

It was the eighth career victory for the Canadian, who opened Sunday's play holding a five-stroke lead.

Billy Casper, the defending champion who was in second place after three rounds, became sick and had to withdraw after six holes.

Arnold Palmer, the second-round leader, carded a 74 and was well back at 282. Jack Nicklaus, the pre-tournament favorite, had a 72 and wasn't a factor at 281.

Bobby Nichols provided most of the excitement, scoring the third ace of his career on the 197-yard seventh hole. Nichols tied Hale Irwin for second place at 274.

Murphy, a 29-year-old tour regular on his first visit to Australia, won the $25,000 Wills Masters tournament with a final round 67 Sunday for a 278 total.

The American finished three strokes ahead of Skuree Onsham of Thailand, who placed second in the event at Sydney.

Australians Bruce Devlin and Bill Dunk tied for third at 283.

Massengale, a former tour regular who now teaches at the Elmwood Country Club in White Plains, N.Y., won the $100,000 Professional Golfers Association Club Pro championship at Pinehurst, N.C. on Sunday.

Massengale, who won the Canadian Open in 1966, received $15,000 for his win while Bruno won $9,000.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in everyday conversation, the publishers have printed full details of their interesting self-training method in a new booklet, "Adventures in Conversation," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. Four-Day Week Job Booster?

ROAD TO OTTAWA 72

Mike Hall-Patch, independent candidate for Victoria, said in a press release Monday that "the auditor-general should be as free from threat and influence as a supreme court judge . . . and any attempt to intimidate him by anybody, including the prime minister, should be a criminal offence.

"Should death or retirement make it necessary to appoint a new auditor-general, his appointment should be the subject of a special vote in parliament, and for the purpose of this vote, each opposition member's ballot should count as two."

Roger Smith, Esquimalt-Saanich NDP candidate, said in a press release Monday that the Liberal government fishing policy "is creating a select group of fishermen while adding to unemployment among young people.

"While the demand increases for the remaining vessels, the market prices increase and young people cannot afford to enter the industry. Only those young people whose families are rich, or those who do not object to mortgaging themselves for life at high interest rates, can become fishermen.

"Fishermen have asked both Liberal and Conservative governments to clear streams and spawning beds but were always told stream clearance was not a priority.

"The Liberal government has invested in hatcheries, but the Capilano hatchery is a classic example of how to waste taxpayer money. That hatchery is a device to maintain the local base for Environment Minister Jack Davis, even though the $3.6 million investment plus the $50,000 operating costs, makes the annual production of 1.6 million fry look rather expensive."

Louis Lindholm, Liberal candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich, said in a press release Monday that the "country is strong and the future is bright.

"Despite cries of impending doom by NDP and Conservative candidates, Canada's among the strongest of the world's nations.

"We might, as Prime Minister Trudeau pointed out, look poor when compared to the Garden of Eden, but when our condition is compared to that of most of the countries of Europe, including Great Britain, there is cause for rejoicing."

Flemming Hansen, Victoria NDP candidate, suggested in a press release Monday that the government promote a four-day work week "in certain industries as a means of increasing employment."

Hansen said the government "could consult with labor and management in industries which have been plagued by unemployment, to implement the four day work week for a trial period.

"Such a policy would see thousands of Canadians who are not now working, take their rightful place in the labor force.

"A logical starting place for the shorter work week would be in factories where the work is monotonous and unrewarding. More leisure for the workers and more work for everybody, would be the result."

Allan McKinnon, Progressive Condervative candidate for Victoria, said in a press release Monday that disenfranchisement of hospital patients on election day will be nearly total.

He said the "proxy vote system is so bound up in red tape that it would take half a day for a patient's friend or relative to arrange." He estimated that "something in the order of 1,000 patients would not be voting because of these restrictions.

"Enumerating and voting procedures in Canada are still very much in the horse-and-buggy stage and seem to be getting more rigid and restrictive each election."

□

Dan Heffernan, Victoria Progressive Independent candidate, said in a press release Monday that the NDP, in "their American industrial takeover policies, admit that by buying out the Americans, Canada will have to accept a lower standard of living."

He added that "the fact that this country spends more money on advertising than on education shows there are other more important priorities than lowering our standard of living."

He advocated steps that Canada could take, such as "stop foreign residents from buying Canadian land." He also said he would like to see gradual curbs on American industrial investment in Canada.

Rebel Players To Be Suspended

Players who ignored a B.C. Soccer Commission warning and played Sunday in a Premier Soccer League playoff game while the league is under suspension will all be suspended for a minimum of one year.

Commission chairman Stuart Ross of Vancouver said Monday night the commission will meet later this week to make the penalty official but, he added, a year's suspension was decided on at the last meeting and "in effect, this applies now."

A crowd of 1400 saw Columbus down Croatia, 4-1, at Swangard Stadium in the first leg of a two-game, total-goal semi-final. The referee and linesmen were pelted with garbage and fans favoring Croatia streamed on the field at the end of the match.

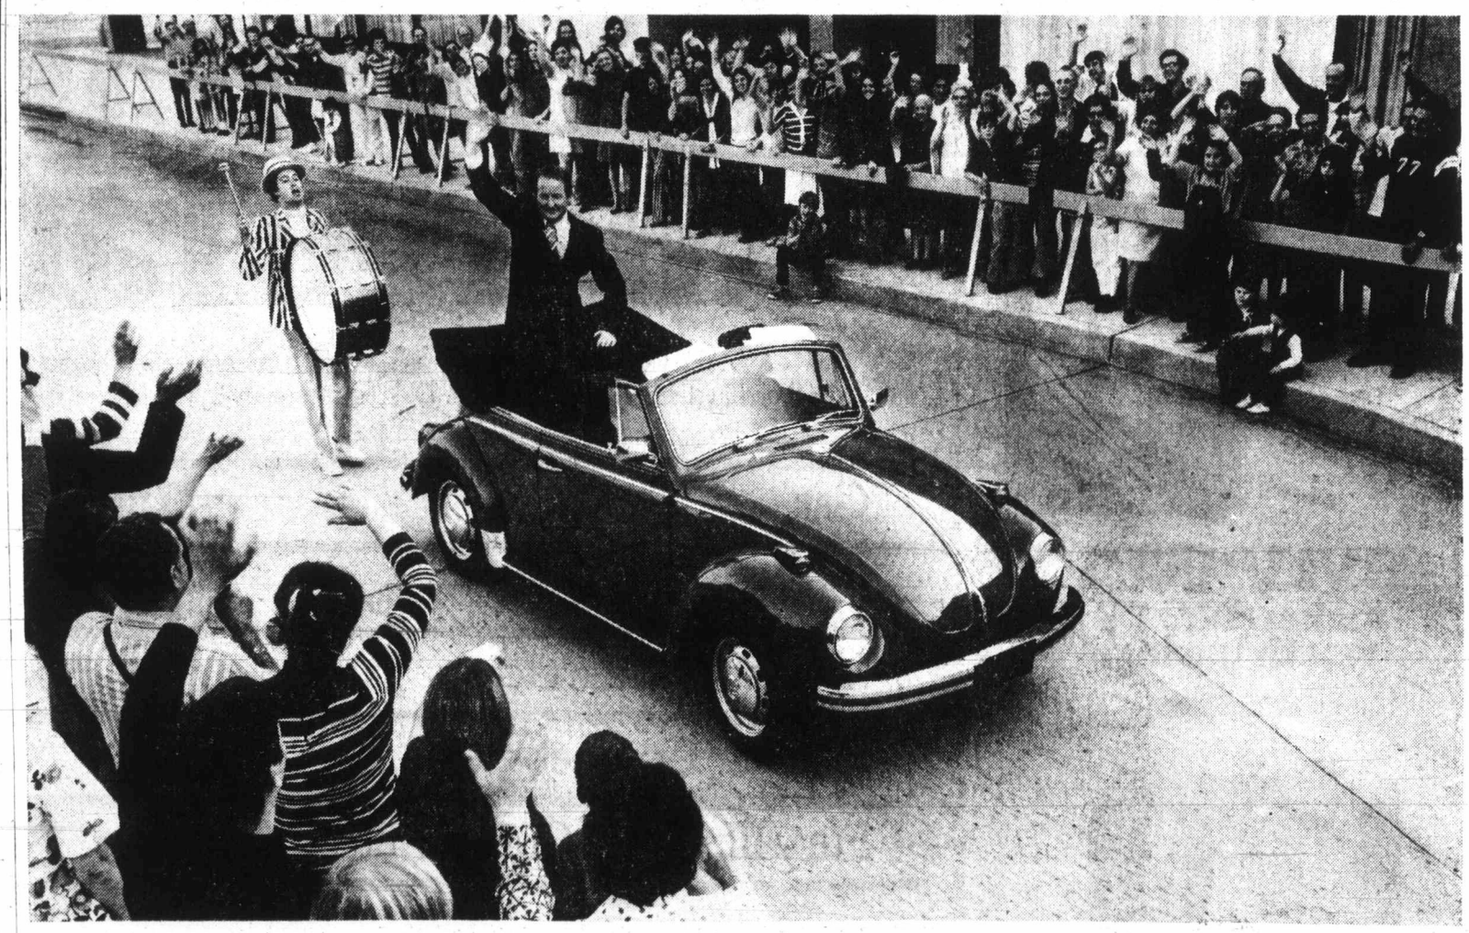

Vanni Lenarduzzi scored twice for Columbus and Victor Kodelja and Buzz Parsons got the other goals. Anton Kuzilek scored for Croatia.

Second game of the series is set for next Sunday and the league expects Victoria Regals to take on Vancouver Spartans in the other semi-final Saturday.

But in Victoria, Regals president Jack Adams said Monday night he knew nothing of the arrangements.

"This man approached me on the public street the other day in a somewhat belligerent manner as he was about to enter a licensed premises," Judge William Ostler said Monday in Victoria Provincial Court of a 48-year-old Victoria resident.

"I am not shocked by that sort of thing," he said, but if he was to sentence John Maxim of 1021 Government to prison, "it may be felt that I took such things personally or in a hard way. That is not true, of course, but it happened so recently I feel I should not take the case."

Maxim was transferred to the court of Judge F. S. Green, where he pleaded guilty to a Victoria charge of theft involving less than $200 in the shoplifting of 10 recordings worth $54 from the T. Eaton store Thursday and to a Victoria charge of failing to appear in court Friday.

Prosecutor John Macintyre said Maxim had a record dating back to 1966 and including two jail terms this year for theft. Green sentenced Maxim to a total of three more months in jail.

Pollen F Chargin

Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen says he will ask city council to take legal action against the Canadian Radio and TV Commission for withholding financial information in connection with the recent request by Victoria Cablevision Ltd. for a monthly rate increase.

By denying the city access to pertinent financial data related to Premier Cablevision and its subsidiary, Victoria Cablevision, the CRTC effectively blocked Victoria's attempts to make a case against the firm's request for a rate increase, the mayor said in an interview Monday.

He also criticized the CRTC for not announcing its decision until after the Oct. 30 federal election.

Victoria Cablevision's request for an increase in rates to individual subscribers from $4.50 to $5 a month was dealt with at the recent CRTC hearing in Edmonton.

Prior to that hearing, the city of Victoria requested information from the CRTC regarding the financial status of Premier Cablevision and Victoria Cablevision; that request was turned down.

Seventh Inmate At Large

A 31-year-old man Sunday became the seventh person on the list of people recorded as absent from the William Head minimum-security institution in Metchosin.

Colwood RCMP and institution officials said Eugene Kowalchuk failed to return on schedule at 9 a.m. Sunday after getting a weekend pass at 9 a.m. Friday. They said he had been out on pass several times but had always been back on time.

Kowalchuk was sentenced one year ago Friday in Vancouver to three years for car theft and possession of known stolen property. He is described as six feet tall, weighing 172 pounds with blue eyes and brown hair.

William Head's missing-inmates list is led by John Stelling, who left a year ago Thursday while doing time for drugs offences and is the first person ever to escape from the institution for more than a year.

PROVINCIAL COURT

"This man approached me on the public street the other day in a somewhat belligerent manner as he was about to enter a licensed premises," Judge William Ostler said Monday in Victoria Provincial Court of a 48-year-old Victoria resident.

"I am not shocked by that sort of thing," he said, but if he was to sentence John Maxim of 1021 Government to prison, "it may be felt that I took such things personally or in a hard way. That is not true, of course, but it happened so recently I feel I should not take the case."

Murray Thomas Cranston of Vancouver, a former used car sales manager for National Motors at 819 Yates, was fined $350, put on probation for two years and ordered to replay a total of about $527 in a year.

Green imposed the sentence after Cranston pleaded guilty Oct. 5 to a Victoria charge of theft containing one count of more than $200 and two under that amount. Police said Cranston kept $343.75 from a car deal last Jan. 18, about $68 from one May 17 and $115 from a third Aug. 31.

Cranston, described by the judge as "a foolish man" who abused a position of trust, admitted the offences to a bonding company before police knew of them and gave himself up to police soon after.

Allan Johnston, 33, no fixed address, was jailed six months by Ostler after pleading guilty Friday to two Victoria charges. They contained two counts of theft involving less than $200 and one count each of obtaining lodgings by fraud and possessing a concealed offensive weapon.

The theft counts concerned the removal of $3 in coins Wednesday from a bed-vibrator cashbox at a motel and the shoplifting Thursday of a $45 coat from The Bay. In addition, he was carrying a concealed knife when arrested Thursday and obtained $44.47 in lodgings during five days at a Victoria hotel without paying.

Beverly Louisa Jones, 21, of Port Renfrew, was fined $150 and Marvin Buffy Blainey, 22, of 2674 Dowler, was fined $100 following their pleas of guilty to separate Colwood RCMP charges of common assault.

Macintyre said the two were passengers in a car stopped Aug. 13 by police and got into a scuffle with two officers. Miss Jones hit one constable with a piece of wood.

□

Preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 17 for Robert Stanley Taylor, 21, of 3244 Linwood, who elected trial by judge and jury on a charge of trafficking in hashish Sept. 26 and one of possession of hashish Oct. 13, both in Victoria. The hearing will take place in a special section of Provincial Court set up in the Law Courts to hear cases resulting from the recent narcotics crackdown.

□

Guy Edward Woods, 17, of 750 Jasmine, received a suspended sentence and a six-month probationary term after pleading guilty to a charge of possession of a narcotic — two pieces of hashish found Friday when police checked him in the Bastion Square area.

□

In traffic court, Judge Harold Alder imposed a 14-day jail term and a three-month driving ban against James Joseph McDonell, 21, of 931 Maddison, who pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving Sept. 30 in Victoria.

□

Fines of $350 each were set for Kenneth Philip Charlie, Duncan, who pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving Saturday in Victoria, and James William Anderson, 38, HMCS Gatineau, found guilty following a trial on a charge of impaired driving June 12 in the Colwood area.

Pollen Ponders Charging CRTC

Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen says he will ask city council to take legal action against the Canadian Radio and TV Commission for withholding financial information in connection with the recent request by Victoria Cablevision Ltd. for a monthly rate increase.

By denying the city access to pertinent financial data related to Premier Cablevision and its subsidiary, Victoria Cablevision, the CRTC effectively blocked Victoria's attempts to make a case against the firm's request for a rate increase, the mayor said in an interview Monday.

He also criticized the CRTC for not announcing its decision until after the Oct. 30 federal election.

Victoria Cablevision's request for an increase in rates to individual subscribers from $4.50 to $5 a month was dealt with at the recent CRTC hearing in Edmonton.

Prior to that hearing, the city of Victoria requested information from the CRTC regarding the financial status of Premier Cablevision and Victoria Cablevision; that request was turned down.

Pollen said he questions the legality of the CRTC's decision to withhold that information. On those grounds, he said, he will ask city council at next Thursday's meeting to take legal action against the commission.

"Because of the CRTC's refusal to give us the information we requested, our opposition to the rate increase was almost useless," Pollen said.

"I am very disturbed by the fact that a public body such as the CRTC, which has been set up to protect the public interest, will do anything to avoid the public interest," he said.

Rather than accepting the circumstances with resignation, Pollen said, he would "vigorously pursue" the matter.

Sanford Addresses House

Hostility Rampant In Young Case

Campbell River was a divided city on education with hatred and hostility rampant, Comox New Democrat MLA Karen Sanford told the Legislature Monday.

In her maiden speech, Ms. Sanford praised changes by the government in the Public Schools Act and said there was room for more flexibility and innovative policies in education.

Then she cited Campbell River and although she did not name him, referred to high school principal John Young, who was recently fired by the local school board.

Ms. Sanford told the Legislature that a principal in Campbell River had been trying to introduce innovative approaches but some members of the community and school board were not ready to accept them.

However, a large section of the population was happy the principal's policies and as a result there was "divisiveness, hatred and hostility."

The people who suffered were the teacher and students as they had been "demoralized" by the publicity the divisiveness had brought on the high school, Ms. Sanford, a former school teacher, said.

She welcomed Education Minister Eileen Dailly's legislation to change the education system by lifting the 6.5 per cent ceiling on teachers salaries; increasing allowable spending by school boards on operating budgets up to 110 per cent; and allowing further financing of a two-thirds majority vote of school trustees.

And Mrs. Sanford said she hopes never to hear again reference in the Legislature to music and art teachers as "tippy tappy people" — an apparent reference to remarks made by former municipal affairs minister Dan Campbell, who she defeated in the Aug. 30 election.

Campbell River high school principal, John Young has appealed his dismissal and a hearing open to the public and press has been set for Nov. 28.

When Australian contralto Lauris Elms was persuaded to change her musical training from violin to vocal, a world-wide audience gained the benefit, for hers must be one of the finest voices in that range.

She possesses a warmth of tone that carries through her whole range, a rich quality totally lacking in edge and without the strong vibrato that is sometimes the mark of the contralto.

At her appearance with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra Monday evening at the Royal Theatre, the audience saluted her performance with storms of applause, in which they were joined by Laszlo Gati and members of the orchestra.

Her two selections were Bach's Cantata No. 170, and Mahler's Four Songs of a Wayfarer, and her expressive ability was remarkable in both.

It was a demanding program, especially to ears like mine, which are not closely attuned to much of Bach's work. It made me wonder why contraltos, of all singers, are given so many songs that are heavy, sad, even at times menacing and pugnacious.

Not that the cantata fell into all these categories. It just made me feel that Miss Elms' recital Wednesday at the McPherson Playhouse might offer more "listenable" selections.

The orchestra itself was equally well received in its two offerings: Gluck's Iphigenia in Aulis Overture, and Beethoven's Symphony No. IV in B flat Major.

Couple Awakened By Screaming

Screams and loud obscenities coming from the apartment below theirs awakened a couple three times over a period of about two hours during the time an alleged assault was taking place, the couple testified in Victoria County Court Monday.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Abbott, were testifying at the judge-and-jury trial of Thomas Frank Gordon, 21, of 639 Constance, who is charged with indecent assault.

Mrs. Abbott told court that she was awakened about 3 a.m., 4 a.m. and 5 a.m. the morning of July 8, each time by a woman screaming in the apartment underneath theirs at 639 Constance.

The complainant in the case, a 24-year-old woman, testified she had gone with Gordon to his apartment that night after leaving a club dance because she thought there was going to be a party there.

However, no one else came to the apartment, and after about 20 minutes Gordon took her into a dark room, and pushed her down on the bed where she wrestled and fought him for two or three hours before he let her go.

Under cross-examination by defence counsel Brian Smith, she said she had had about 10 drinks of gin and a soft drink at the dance before going to the apartment and one beer before that.

The trial continues today before Judge M.L.T. Drake and a jury of seven men and five women. Crown counsel is Cecil Branson.

Life Term Given

Michael Sean McCormick, 33, was found guilty in Nanaimo, Monday of non-capital murder in the April 22 shooting death of 17-year-old Brenda Eileen Daniluck of Nanaimo. He was sentenced to life in prison.

The girl died of two gunshot wounds to the head from a .22 calibre revolver owned by McCormick. The incident occurred after the two had spent an evening in the Longhouse Restaurant cabaret on Front Street.

A B.C. Supreme Court jury deliberated for seven hours, 45 minutes before handing down its verdict Monday night.

McCormick was said to have left the restaurant shortly after midnight April 21 and taken a taxi to his Nanaimo home. The taxi driver told court McCormick said someone in the restaurant was giving him "a rough time," and that he was "going to fix them."

He said McCormick took something from the trunk of his car then returned to the restaurant.

Eyewitnesses told court they saw McCormick take a gun out in the cabaret and shoot at Linda Sweezey, 21, Miss Daniluck and Wayne Barber, who was not connected with McCormick's party. Another man, Rick Coultran, was felled by a bullet in the parking lot outside the restaurant as he tried to subdue McCormick.

Defence in the case, handled by Nanaimo lawyer R. M. Hutchinson, was based mainly on whether the accused was capable of forming the intent to kill in view of the fact that he had been drinking heavily through the day and evening prior to the shooting.

Islands Plans On List

A regional plan for the Gulf Islands and a community plan for Salt Spring Island will be dealt with at the Capital Regional Board's first meeting on Salt Spring Island next Saturday.

The proposed regional plan for the Gulf Islands is the first stage of an over-all regional plan. It proposes to retain the Gulf Islands as "quiet retreats" with commercial activity restricted to those which "provide for the immediate needs of residents and visitors."

Under the proposed regional plan, the Gulf Islands would continue to be developed under the restrictions of the 10-acre subdivision minimum.

The proposed community plan for Salt Spring Island, tailored specifically to the island's needs, anticipates an ultimate population of 18,000. Salt Spring Island's present population is 3,280.

It also proposes to lift the 10-acre subdivision restriction in certain places and permit development on one-acre lots.

If recommendations of a committee of the Capital Regional Board are followed in regard to defence department land for which the United World Colleges School of the Pacific is negotiating, the school will be forced to go elsewhere, its headmaster said Monday.

"We're at a vital stage. We have to get the question of the site cleared up," said the headmaster, Jack Matthews, in a telephone interview from his farm home near Peterborough, Ont.

Last Wednesday the regional board planning committee recommended that a letter be sent to Ottawa asking the federal government to lease, not sell, a 74-acre parcel of land at Pedder Bay for the school.

"We can't raise money for a school on leased land," Matthews said Monday. "We have to own it."

The committee also recommended that the regional board urge the federal government to retain a 200-foot strip of land along the foreshore for public use.

A three-year-old boy drowned Monday afternoon when he fell into a neighbor's backyard swimming pool.

Colwood RCMP identified the little boy as Scotty McLeod, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. B. McLeod, of 551 Cedarcrest, Colwood.

Sources close to the RCMP investigation believe it happend this way:

Scotty and two other neighborhood children, aged two and three, had entered the backyard of the F. Y. Chung residence, 3130 Wishart, Colwood, early in the afternoon while nobody was home.

The three children had found an opening in a fence surrounding the swimming pool area of the yard and played together in the area.

Two of the children left the yard to play in another, leaving Scotty behind. RCMP believe the boy fell into the pool about 3:30 p.m.

Fence Opening Entered

The two children returned and found their friend in the pool. They again left the yard to play in another yard.

They then returned to their home and the parents of one of the children learned what happened. RCMP were contacted.

Because of a lack of older witnesses, a coroner's inquiry rather than an inquest will be conducted by Victoria area coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre.

The dead boy's father said from his home Monday night that he did not know the circumstances surrounding his son's death because he was in Vancouver at the time and had not had a chance to talk to RCMP.

It was the second drowning in the Victoria area within three days.

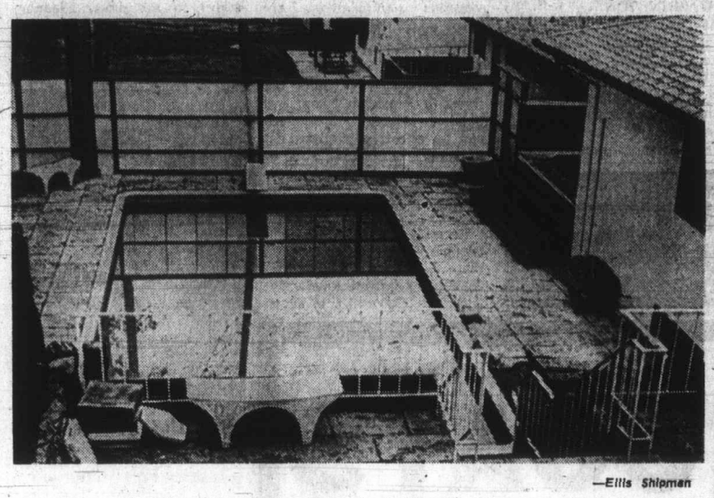

An inquest will be held tonight into the death Friday night of John Philip Vincent, 39, of 1667 Hollywood Crescent, Oak Bay police announced Monday.

Vincent was pronounced dead at Royal Jubilee Hospital after being pulled from the water at an Oak Bay Marina jetty.

He had been aboard the Northern Pride — a fishboat converted into a pleasure craft — with another man and apparently fell into the water between the boat and jetty.

The other man, who police refused to identify, unsuccessfully attempted to pull Vincent from the water and then contacted police by telephone.

St. Jorre will start the inquest at 7:30 p.m. in McCall's chapel.

Proxy Voting Complicated

Proxy voting will be allowed for the first time in the federal election, but the procedure is a complicated one.

And at least one candidate in the Capital Region has branded the new system "one way to disenfranchise a lot of voters."

The candidate is Allan McKinnon, who is running for the Tories in Victoria riding.

He said this week that he thought the proxy system was so cumbersome and difficult to use that a lot of people — especially those in acute-care hospitals, simply won't bother.

The system allows mariners, prospectors, those incapacitated for health reasons and students away from home to nominate a proxy who can vote on their behalf.

The first step requires that the person wishing to vote by proxy obtain an application form, have it filled in along with a validating statement by a doctor or some person in authority.

Mrs. E. T. Lea, returning officer in Esquimalt-Saanich, said that after this has been completed, the returning officer will issue a proxy certificate.

She said one copy is given to the person unable to vote in person, one copy goes to the proxy voter and one is kept by the returning officer.

The proxy voter must live in the same polling division as the incapacitated voter.

This means that if a man has his mother in hospital and she wants him to vote for her, he can't unless he lives in the same area. He has to go and find someone who does live in the polling area who is willing to go through the form-filling routine.

On voting day, the voter goes to the polling place and votes himself. He then shows the proxy certificate and is given a second ballot.

The absent voter has no guarantee whatsoever that the proxy voter will vote for the candidate he wishes to support.

In the case of those confined to hospital, there will be no travelling polls. They were used on a trial basis in provincial election but never federally.

In the proxy system, further complications come with the student voter and the question of establishing his place of residence.

Mrs. Lea explained that a single student from Nanaimo living in Victoria and attending university here could vote in either area depending on his financial status.

Mrs. Lea said, "I question them closely when they come in here to see if they are financially independent."

A student who is able to convince Mrs. Lea he is independent is allowed to vote in this area. If he gets any financial help from home then he would have to vote by proxy in Nanaimo.

If a student is married it doesn't matter how rich or poor he is because he is automatically regarded as independent and so votes in Victoria or Esquimalt-Saanich even if his actual place of residence is Prince Rupert.

Students get forms authenticated from the registrar before they go and get their proxy certificates.

Mrs. Lea said she thought the system "is fair because it could create havoc if we had 5,000 students voting in the same place.

Pollen's Alternate Plan

Tel Takeover 'Fatal Mistake'

By HUBERT BEYER

A takeover of B.C. Tel by the provincial government would be a "fatal mistake," and municipalities would be the first ones to suffer from it, Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen said Monday.

Instead of making the firm more efficient, the New Democratic government would inevitably turn it into a "great, ponderous bureaucracy," Pollen said in an interview.

Premier Dave Barrett has repeated that his government intends to take over B.C. Tel eventually.

The danger to municipalities of such action, the mayor said, was that sustaining a giant bureaucracy costs a lot of money, leaving little for municipalities which need it most.

"The idea of taking over large corporations is a 19th century British socialist concept; it just doesn't work," Pollen said.

"I prefer the Swedish concept. Sweden wouldn't dream of taking over the country's leading corporations, but they spell out the guidelines under which they want the firms to operate," he added.

Pollen outlined his "Swedish concept" of controlling B.C. Tel without the immense cost of a takeover.

First of all, he said, B.C. Tel should be forced to buy Anglo-Canadian telephone's three subsidiaries — Dominion Directories, Lenkurt Electronics and Canadian Telephone Equipment.

Like B.C. Tel, the three firms in question are controlled by Anglo which, in turn, is controlled by General Telephone Electronics, a U.S. company.

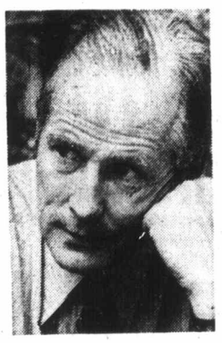

But unlike B.C. Tel, the three firms are immensely profitable; much of their profit comes from exclusive dealings with B.C. Tel, Pollen said.

Dominion Directories, he said, had the monopoly on yellow pages in the province's directories. All of B.C. Tel's equipment was purchased largely through the two other firms.

"The trouble is that none of the profits are funnelled back into B.C. Tel; they are siphoned off into the parent firm — Anglo-Canadian Telephone," Pollen said.

By purchasing the three Anglo subsidiaries, he said, B.C. Tel could get a good share of the profits which now go to Anglo.

The mayor also suggested that the provincial government have a representative on B.C. Tel's board of directors. This, he said, could be achieved by the provincial government taking a share position in B.C. Tel stock.

Pollen
... 19th Century

In addition to that, Pollen said, the government should insist that Anglo's 51 per cent interest in B.C. Tel be reduced to give "theoretical control" over the utility's operations to Canadian shareholders.

"This would save the cost of replacing the expert management of B.C. Tel, because many of them wouldn't work under a government-controlled utility, and it would save the immense outlay of purchasing the company," Pollen said.

"It would also increase the accountability to shareholders. It would be a sophisticated approach to making corporations respond to the community's needs," he said.

It's Business as Usual As Store Blacks Out

A blown transformer knocked out power at Simpsons-Sears store in the Hillside mall for almost six hours Monday, but the outage didn't produce any serious problems.

Store manager Jack Hutchins said the power went off about 10:20 a.m. Monday and wasn't restored until about 4 p.m.

The store continued to operate with a minimum of inconvenience, he said. An emergency lighting system came on automatically when the main power supply failed, and cashiers cranked cash registers by hand.

Headmaster Says:

School Funding Out, If Site Only Leased

By DON GAIN
Colonist Reporter

If recommendations of a committee of the Capital Regional Board are followed in regard to defence department land for which the United World Colleges School of the Pacific is negotiating, the school will be forced to go elsewhere, its headmaster said Monday.

"We're at a vital stage. We have to get the question of the site cleared up," said the headmaster, Jack Matthews, in a telephone interview from his farm home near Peterborough, Ont.

Last Wednesday the regional board planning committee recommended that a letter be sent to Ottawa asking the federal government to lease, not sell, a 74-acre parcel of land at Pedder Bay for the school.

"We can't raise money for a school on leased land," Matthews said Monday. "We have to own it."

The committee also recommended that the regional board urge the federal government to retain a 200-foot strip of land along the foreshore for public use.

"We're more interested in the shoreline than the rest of the property," Matthews explained. "We need it for swimming pools and for our sea-rescue drills. It just wouldn't work if we had to give up that 200 feet."

Matthews
... vital stage

Matthews said it was "most unfortunate that we did not speak to the regional board about our project" and indicated he would come to Victoria as soon as he could to find out just where the school stood in relation to the board.

Today Matthews, former headmaster of Lakefield College School near Peterborough, will be in Ottawa, in connection with negotiations to buy the land at Pedder Bay.

"We have been given the right to purchase and are in the process of drawing up a contract so that the department of national defence can use the land around us," he said.

"We are on very good terms with DND," he added. "our contract is now in its third draft and I believe the final draft has just been completed."

The school must have the site before the capital fund-raising campaign can begin, the headmaster said. "You can't raise money for a building on an unspecified site."

(The money to purchase the land, for an undisclosed price, came from an anonymous donor.)

"But we can't locate in the Victoria area if the people are not with us," he said.

Last Thursday, David Groos, Liberal candidate in Victoria for the Oct. 30 federal election, said the land sale by the federal government was still "very much up in the air."

He suggested that if those connected with the school heard about concern over the land purchase, they might decide to go elsewhere.

The School of the Pacific would be the third United World College. Others are in Wales and Singapore.

Friend Joins Heroin Addict In Fraud Scheme

A story of how heroin addiction can affect a friend of the user as well as the addict himself was told Monday in Victoria Provincial Court.

Brenda Rose Collins, 17, of 740 Newbury in Saanich, pleaded guilty to two Saanich fraud charges and was remanded by Judge William Ostler to Nov. 7 for a pre-sentence report and sentence.

Gregory Harris, 17, charged with Miss Collins in one case, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to four months definite and eight months indeterminate. The term will run at the same time as similar sentences Harris, an admitted heroin user, got last week for uttering and a break-in.

A Saanich detective testified Harris stole a bank charge card from his mother's mail about Sept. 12. Next day, said the detective, Harris offered this scheme to Miss Collins:

She would sign the charge card and use it to buy expensive clothing. She would turn the clothing over to Harris and he would sell it for cash, paying her some of it.

The detective said Miss Collins signed the card and used it the same day to buy about $210 worth of clothing at two stores. He said some of the clothing was retained by Miss Collins and another person while Harris gave the other person $15.

The officer testified Harris told police "he sold a $100 jacket for a capsule of heroin (usual price: $20) and sold another jacket (worth $67) for $35 and also used that money for heroin."

The day after, said the detective, Miss Collins took the card to five stores and used it to buy a turntable and clothing worth a total of about $175.

Water Problem Waived

High School Stays Put

Shifting of a proposed high school to be built at MacDonald Park Road, North Saanich, to another location because of a possible water supply shortage was rejected Monday night by Saanich school board.

Central Saanich school trustee Gordon Ewen told the board that the problem of Deep Cove water system was serious and suggested studying the "pros and cons" of moving the proposed school to a 13-acre site on Stelly's Cross Road, Central Saanich.

He claimed the water supply in Central Saanich would be adequate and sewer connections would be about $15,000 instead of a cost of $40,000 it will cost to hook into the Sidney system.

The board rejected moving the proposed school but agreed to meet with the water board to see if suitable arrangements can be made for the school water supply.

Trustee Trevor Davis suggested that the B.C. government have B.C. ferries obtain water from a mainland source rather than from the Deep Cove water board.

Wifely Campaign Styles in Sharp Contrast

WASHINGTON (AP) — To Pat Nixon, her 1972 cross-country campaign is for "carrying the White House to the people." To Eleanor McGovern the campaign means exhorting people to vote for a change.

The two women, though vigorous campaigners, are poles apart in their political styles.

Both camps — Republicans and Democrats — think the wives of President Nixon and Senator George McGovern can be effective, perhaps not in actual vote-getting, but at least in keeping their husbands' names before the people.

Recently, Pat, 60, and Eleanor, 50, embarked on their longest solo cross-country campaign tours. Pat travelled 5,560 miles to seven states in six days. Eleanor went 7,169 miles to six states in eight days.

Trying to downplay politics,

Pat Nixon

tall blonde, poised, friendly Pat flew in a huge silver and blue Boeing 707 presidential jet with a staff of nine, six Secret Service Agents, 30 press and her own hairdresser.

She played her goodwill ambassador role, kissing, hugging, hand-patting, autographing; making only brief remarks lauding volunteers, campaign workers and projects.

She made no formal speeches, never asked outright for a vote and only once mentioned the Nixon administration publicly.

Frankly political on the other hand, was Eleanor McGovern. Dainty, diminutive, soft-spoken, she set forth in a small 10-passenger chartered jet with just two staff members, one Secret Service agent, four reporters and a next-door neighbor as travelling companion.

Doing battle for her husband, Mrs. McGovern's speeches were as hard hitting as those of candidates themselves.

Mrs. McGovern did her hand-shaking, autographing and baby hugging, too, with a warm, though more reserved approach.

Eleven months of campaigning have been draining on her, she says. She was in hospital for three days last week after complaining of abdominal pains. Returning to the campaign trail, she was sidelined in Cleveland with nausea and a headache and returned home to Washington.

The sharpest disagreement between the two women came on the Vietnam war and the alleged bugging of the Watergate Hotel headquarters of

On Vietnam:

● Mrs. Nixon said she was willing to die for the Thieu regime in South Vietnam "to save freedom for 17 million people who are having aggression against them with the idea of taking away their freedom and their country."

● Mrs. McGovern said she would not die for that cause. "I think there's been enough killing and dying for a corrupt regime . . . The Thieu regime does not accord its people freedoms that we have in this country."

On the Watergate bugging:

● Mrs. Nixon said it won't hurt her husband's chances and she wasn't concerned about it. "I think it's blown completely out of proportion."

● Mrs. McGovern said it was far from the "caper" some people called it. She said it is a serious infringement on constitutional freedoms of privacy and free speech.

Both women are unusually thin. Pat, five feet five inches tall, weighs 110; Eleanor at four feet, nine inches, usually weighs 100, but dropped to 92 in 11 months of campaigning.

They are farmers' daughters, brought up in the depression era, Pat in Artesia, Calif., Eleanor in Woonsocket, S.D. Both went to college, studied business subjects and still use shorthand.

Relatives Reunited

Celebration Doubly Fun

Dorothy Wrotnowski

It was a double celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Sidney W. Hoole. At their golden wedding celebration all four of Mrs. Hoole's immediate family were together for the first time in 50 years.

A dinner party in their honor was given by Mrs. Hoole's brother, Brig. T. E. D'Oyly Snow at the Deep Cove Chalet. Also present were the Hooles' son-in-law and daughter, Stephen and Barbara Hives, Mrs. Hoole's sister, Mrs. J. B. Carr of Woodstock, N.B., and her younger brother, A. L. J. Snow, his wife and two daughters, Norma and Deborah.

Sidney and Agnes Snow were married in St. Barnabas Church here and a reception was held later at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Oliver.

They had met in 1918 at a military camp in Chepstow, England, where her father, the late Col. A. B. Snow, was the commanding officer.

For the first 20 years of their married life the Hooles lived on Salt Spring Island. Now they live at Lochside Drive in Sidney.

Mrs. Hoole was born in Beuchuanaland. When only a few months old she and her mother while treking to Hope Town were captured by the Boers. Fortunately Mrs. Snow knew the commandant of the Boer party and persuaded him to allow them to proceed to their destination.

Last week a friend of mine, Laleah Barnes was over from Vancouver for a few days staying with Jean Turner in her apartment in Beckley Manor which has a breathtaking view over the water to the mountains.

The night I was there Jean was talking about the coming sale of Arbutus Crafts, hoping that it would go over even in this pre-Christmas bazaar time.

These crafts are done in the Arbutus Workshop for the disabled which is sponsored by the Kinsmen Rehabilitation Foundation of British Columbia.

It will take place Nov. 2 and 3 from noon to 7 p.m. in the War Amps Hall, 1610 Oak Bay Avenue. J. H. Gorst, MLA, will officiate at the opening at 2 p.m. on the Thursday.

Here are a few things that Jean asks if you know about this sale—that the articles on sale will have all been made by the handicapped, some 70 of them at the present time, and that they receive 75 per cent of the money made on each sale; Arbutus Crafts will re-cane the seat of that fine old chair you have relegated to the basement or attic; that if you are an artist in need of a new canvas—and a frame to go with it—Arbutus Crafts makes these up in all sizes.

If you long for a solid, reed topped stool on which to rest your weary feet, Arbutus Crafts makes them.

Erma Bombeck

We gave a coffee for my friend, Clara Weatherbird, yesterday.

Clara holds the record for driving a school bus longer than any other woman in the entire district. Six weeks.

Of the 10 women who preceded Clara during the first week of school, five retired to do headache commercials on TV, four just sit in an empty room and drool uncontrollably, and one started her own religion.

"I think it's wonderful," I said to Clara. "How in the world did you become a bus driver in the first place?"

"Well," she said, rubbing her right eye which seemed to rotate independently of her other eye, "I saw this ad in the paper that said, 'MOTHERS EARN EXTRA MONEY. Work four hours a day. See the sun rise and the sun set. Be home when your children are home. No experience necessary.'"

"And that got you?"

"Well, that crack about being home when the children were there almost discouraged me from looking into it, but I figured it I dawdled, I'd miss them."

"But you must love children, Clara, or you wouldn't drive 80 of them to school and back every morning and afternoon."

"I'm strict!" she said vehemently, nervously wrapping her hair around her finger and springing it back to her head. "No cooking on the bus. I don't care if they do have a note from home. I just don't allow it. And no games that haven't been cleared by me."

"Gosh, Clara," I smiled. "You mean everytime they play 'Count the Cow' or whip out an Old Maid deck of cards they have to check with you?"

"I'm not that strict, but the other day they were playing 'Keep Away' and I just stopped the bus and said, 'Okay, you either put Miss Wrinkleman down' — she's our bus co-ordinator — 'or this bus doesn't go anywhere.' I know they're just kids but I can't have them standing up when the bus is moving . . . especially when they're on the hood. Yessiree . . . I don't allow no fireworks, no organized crime and no hijacking."

I watched Clara as she moved from one mother to another, trying to control her shaking hands, and thought how grateful we are to this group of dedicated women who each day walk into a virtual cage on wheels and without benefit of whip or chair, shut the door behind them, and turn their backs on 80 children.

"Are you sure you're not taking some kind of a pill like a tranquillizer?" I asked Clara later.

"Only a birth control pill," she said numbly.

Colleg A Lit

By NANCY BROWN

An amazing number of Victoria high school graduates are not literate, says Art Bennett, director of the study skills centre at Camosun College.

This lack of basic literacy, he said, appears to be just about the biggest problem facing high school graduates taking first-year university courses at the college.

Without special upgrading classes in English many students would fail their courses simply because of an inability to read and understand their text books, lectures and other course material, as well as an inability to properly complete examination papers.

It is for all students with special study problems.

There's the high school graduate failing a biology course because of poor English, although her high school records show consistently high marks in English courses.

There's the Cuban woman registered for an English course, obviously well-educated, but needing schooling in pronunciation and use of English.

There's also the math student who somehow has missed out on some segment of the program—perhaps he never quite conquered the mysteries of factoring.

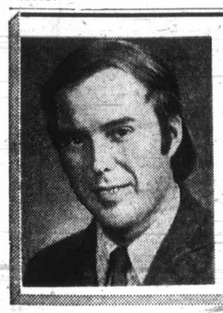

There's a place for them all

College Bridges A Literacy Gap

An amazing number of Victoria high school graduates are not literate, says Art Bennett, director of the study skills centre at Camosun College.

This lack of basic literacy, he said, appears to be just about the biggest problem facing high school graduates taking first-year university courses at the college.

Without special upgrading classes in English many students would fail their courses simply because of an inability to read and understand their text books, lectures and other course material, as well as an inability to properly complete examination papers.

There's the high school graduate failing a biology course because of poor English, although her high school records show consistently high marks in English courses.

There's the Cuban woman registered for an English course, obviously well-educated, but needing schooling in pronunciation and use of English.

There's also the math student who somehow has missed out on some segment of the program—perhaps he never quite conquered the mysteries of factoring.

There's a place for them all in the centre, and says Bennett, an answer to all their problems.

The centre was started last year in a small way, but in September it opened officially offering what amounts to special tutoring for students.

"It seems that most of the work is done in English and math," said Bennett.

"The biggest problem in first years seem to be basic literacy," he added. "It's amazing the number of people who think they are literate when in fact they aren't."

"And it's amazing the number of students graduating from high school with apparently good marks in English who are still not literate," he added.

"I have students here who have to write a term paper in their subject — they don't even know what a term paper is. Some have never written an essay, or a poetry analysis."

The centre will help on all aspects.

"There is even a skill needed in order to pass an examination, and for most students looking for a career the ability to pass an exam is a necessity, so we help there as well," said Bennett.

"A student cannot expect to take philosophy, for instance, if he doesn't know how to listen to a lecture, or how to take notes, or even how to plan a study schedule," he said.

There is usually an influx of students to the centre after examinations have been marked.

Although the centre operates on a conventional schedule, it will arrange to have someone there at any time if a student cannot attend during scheduled hours.

"Sometimes he's just thrown by the terminology when he's asked to write, say an appreciation, and he's not quite sure what is meant.

"In that case all we have to do is tell him he's right, so that he has enough confidence to put answers on paper."

Lights Out

LONDON (CP) — Christmas won't be the same this year in London. There'll be no special Yuletide lights along Regent Street, a major shopping thoroughfare. The illuminations will be absent for the first time in 18 years because of financial complications and traffic difficulties caused by streams of additional cars lured into the area by the decorations.

Chinatown Lions Stage a Festival

That's the way it was Saturday with the club's annual 17 Lanterns Festival in Central junior high.

The crowd delighted in the Oriental atmosphere, the colorful lanterns and flower streamers, the elaborate costumes, the pageantry, the expressions of wonderment on young faces.

So much so that the club raised more than $6,000 for its charities, according to Edward Chow.

Perhaps the biggest hit with the festival-goers was The Legend of the Eight Immortals, a pageant written and directed by Jack and Bessie Tang and presented in both afternoon and night performances. Ornate robes imported from Hong Kong were much admired, and roles taken by youngsters in costume had particular appeal.

Stalls of Oriental goods, Chinese and Occidental foods, lanterns and auction items did a boom trade.

Currently among main projects of Victoria Chinatown Lions are band aid, its swimming program for more than 700 students, minor hockey and junior basketball team support, $1,400 for Jubilee Hospital equipment, a hoist for the handicapped at Naden pool, the Chinese Hospital, and the Chinese public school.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband, who is 40 years old and in excellent physical condition, has several young men in his employ. Most of them are in their late teens and early 20s.

They are nice fellows and we have made them feel welcome in our home. The problem is that Husband likes to wrestle with these young guys and they have just about torn our house apart. The sofa springs are broken and the stuffing is coming out. The good leather chair in the living room has a big hole in it and our rugs have slits from where the boys have dug in their heels. Every table has been knocked over and the lampshades are bent out of shape.

I'm not a person who places a high value on material things but I hate to see damage like this. It makes no sense. When I told my husband he couldn't have the young men in the house anymore unless they stopped horsing around he became furious — said it was his house as well as mine and that he didn't need permission to have friends in. The last thing he said was, "I'm going to write to Ann Landers about this."

Did he write to you, Ann? If so, what did you tell him? I've been watching the mails and haven't seen anything from you. Maybe he asked you to write to him at his place of work. Please inform me.—G.L.

Dear G.L.: Sorry, but I never divulge information concerning my correspondence. If you want answers to these questions, ask your husband.

Dear Ann Landers: A rousing wrath rises in me as I write regarding the Wright-wrought monster, reigning in otherwise restful skies, wrecking repose and reason. This restlessness resists relief. I pray for regeneration. My soul is rent at the roar that wracks reserve as I write, reaching for respite. Is it wrong to be resentful at this repetitious raiding of my rest? I rejoice at the reflection of residential relocation but my recalcitrant husband resists rudely and with rancor.—Raving For Release

Dear Raving: Apparently you are freaked out on Rs today but I managed to break the code. It seems the noise from the planes overhead is driving you bonkers and you want to move away from the airport but your husband says no.

My advice is to find some attractive homes or apartments and take him to see them. The continuous roar of overhead jets can create havoc with the nervous system.

Dear Ann: How about settling an argument? My husband and I go round and round about this every time we attend a funeral.

I can't imagine anyone being so dumb as to think that a bereaved person really wants company in his home after he has just put some dear, departed loved one to rest. Granted, there COULD be such people, but I still maintain that this is not the real reason bereaved people invite all who attend the funeral to come back to the house for luncheon or whatever.

I say the invitiation is an expression of appreciation to those who have taken the time and the trouble, particularly those who come a great distance. Often attending a funeral means the loss of a day's wages. It could also mean skipping breakfast and lunch. "Come back to the house" is a nice way of saying, "Thank you for putting yourself out." Who is right about this?—Mrs. H.

Dear Mrs. H.: You are both right. All your reasons make sense, and so do his.

Facts

CRANBROOK, B.C. (CP) — NDP Leader Davis Lewis said Monday Prime Minister Trudeau distorted the facts by linking rising food prices to farm incomes.

It was the second time in two days that Lewis disputed the statement by Trudeau, who said on a weekend television program that farmers benefit from rising food prices.

Trudeau also denied that price increases have been excessive, riding 2.5 per cent from mid-1970 to mid-1972.

"Obviously this fellow, who has never had to struggle to pay the rent . . . has never gone shopping either," Lewis said of the prime minister.

In fact, said the DNP leader, food prices jumped 42.5 per cent between 1961

Boggs Plane

Air Ace Joins Search

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — The air force's top specialist on search and rescue flew here Monday while bad weather curtailed efforts to find House majority leader Hale Boggs who disappeared with three others in a twin-engine plane.

Brig. Gen. Frank Everest, commander of the aerospace rescue and recovery service, headquartered at Scott AF base, Ill., arrived with two aides.

Everest has flown several experimental rocket planes to unofficial speed and altitude records during his career. He once flew the X2 rocket plane to a speed of 1,957 miles per hour.

Earlier officials said the week-long search for the four men would continue "indefinitely."

Bad weather hampered the search again, grounding most of the 50 planes slated to fly search patterns Monday, a week after the plane vanished. A few spotter planes went up to look for breaks in the overcast.

"If they survived the crash, I feel their chances are still very good," said Air Force Maj. Henry Stoecker, spokesman for the search headquarters at the base. "I don't know how soon, but I think we will find the plane."

Philippine Upri

Last 'Maoi Causes 70

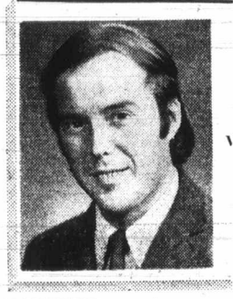

MANILA (UPI) — The Philippine government Monday called a weekend "Maoist" uprising in which as many as 70 persons may have been killed the last spasm of a dying movement. It warned any attempt at renewed fighting would be met with severe and massive retaliatory measures.

A government spokesman said the insurgents in what was described as a Maoist rebellion were led by foreign-trained Filipino guerrillas. "We are not trying to determine whether any foreign national actually participated in the attack," he said.

Information secretary Francisco Tatad said, "this is the last spasm of a dying movement" but said troops were on the alert in case there was more trouble.

In a separate statement to newsmen, Defence Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile said, "it's quiet all over the country now. They better not start anything or else they would give us an opening for severe and massive retaliatory measures."

Trudeau Links Food Prices, Farm Incomes

"Obviously this fellow, who has never had to struggle to pay the rent . . . has never gone shopping either," Lewis said of the prime minister.

In fact, said the DNP leader, food prices jumped 42.5 per cent between 1961 and July, 1972 — a larger and more significant period than Trudeau's two years.

In the same 11 years, prices paid to farmers had increased only 25.4 per cent, while farm production costs rose by 40.2 per cent.

After his lunch speech to the local labor council, he took part in a question-and-answer session with high school students.

Three Elements

Scientist Finds More Essentials

By GEORGE GETZE
Colonist-Los Angeles Times Service

LONG BEACH, Calif. — A veterans administration scientist has added several chemical elements to the short list known to be essential to animal life, presumably including that of man himself.

Klaus Schwarz, MD, head of the metabolic diseases laboratory at the VA hospital here, said the newly added elements are vanadium, fluorine, and silicon. He had earlier discovered that three others, selenium, tin and chromium, are also necessary to animal life.

"The discovery of each has opened the door to a new area of bio-chemistry," Schwarz said in an interview.

Each discovery also has implications in medicine and pathology.

Eleven elements are essential in that they make up the bulk of organic matter, both plant and animal. These bulk elements are carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, nitrogen, calcium, phosphorous, potassium, sodium, magnesium, sulfur and chlorine.

Thirteen others, including the six discovered to be necessary by Schwarz, are all essential in minute or "trace" amounts. In large amounts some are poison.

They are iron, copper, zinc, denum and iodine, and the six manganese, cobalt, molyb- added to the list by Schwarz and his colleagues working in an untraclean laboratory at the VA hospital.

"There is hardly an element in the periodic table that cannot be detected in animals if the methods used are sensitive enough," Schwarz said.

"The problem is to determine whether they are there by chance, and can therefore be considered a contaminant, or whether they belong to the special group of elements essential to animal life," he said.

Brig. Gen. Fidel Ramos, chief of the Philippine constabulary, who flew from Manila to Marawi to direct operations, reported to President Ferdinand Marcos Monday that the insurgents, most of them Moslems, suffered between 60 to 70 fatalities.

Search Knew No Bounds When Young Lad Lost

By BRUCE LOWTHER
Colonist Reporter

The Roy Merkley family of 2837 Brynmaur in Langford doesn't live in the neighborhood of the Colwood community hall but that didn't matter Sunday to neighborhood residents when the youngest Merkley, 18-month-old Derek, disappeared.

Dozens of people living in the area between Colwood elementary school and the Sooke-Metchosin road corner, especially around the intersection of Heatherly and Sooke, joined in the search without being asked twice.

Derek was found, thanks to his voice and one if his feet, an hour after he vanished and was none the worse for wear. Monday, his mother asked the Colonist to thank everyone who helped — Colwood firemen, RCMP, neighborhood children and adults and even a square dancing club.

The Merkleys were visiting at 595 Heatherly when Mrs. Merkley noticed at 2:25 p.m. that Derek wasn't around. He had apparently slipped out a gate to join his older brothers in play but couldn't find them and tried to find his way back to his parents.

He found a house two doors from 595 that looked familiar but no one was home, the doors seemed to lock behind him and he couldn't get out. So he wound up hiding under the kitchen sink.

Meanwhile, his family and their friends were starting a search. They began to knock on neighborhood doors and, as they did, the people inside offered to help. So did children playing in the area.

And also, said Mrs. Merkley, so did a square dancing club in the community hall. She made that trip while others called RCMP and the Colwood volunteer fire department.

The home where Derek was found had been checked before by Mrs. Merkley and others, who had knocked on the front door but heard nothing.

Fire Captain Adrian Birtwhistle sent his men out in twos to do a more thorough check of the homes and Lieutenant Keith Jackson and Fireman George Wishart got to the vacant home as Derek's father was there.

Derek heard his father's voice and whimpered. The sound was heard and a fireman scaled a ladder to look into the kitchen. He saw Derek's foot protruding from beneath the sink and wiggling.

The search story had a happy ending.

Jubilee Of War Feted

In a colorful ceremony given the added touch by traces of fog, residents of San Juan Island Saturday marked the 100th anniversary of becoming officially American citizens on United States territory.

On Oct. 21, 1872, Kaiser Wilhelm I of Germany handed down the decision, in favor of the U.S., which ended what was probably the world's most peaceful war: the 13-year "pig war" which saw the island garrisoned by U.S. soldiers and Royal Marines from Britain.

Ownership of the island had been in dispute since the Hudson's Bay Co. moved its headquarters north to Victoria from Vancouver, Wash., with both countries laying claim and residents of both carving out homesteads.

Pig Shot

The "war" began when a pig belonging to the Hudson's Bay manager was shot by a U.S. farmer — who then refused to pay the $100 indemnity.

For 13 years, American forces occupied a fort at the south end of San Juan, the Royal Marines a site at the north. Not a single shot was fired in anger, the only confrontations being weekend rugby and cricket matches.

On Saturday notables from both sides of the line shared in the centennial celebration at the British camp site, now a U.S. park. A Union Jack was presented to former Royal Marine Frank Helden of Vancouver, and this will fly over a small plot which will be forever British soil.

Marines Died

This is the cemetery for seven marines who died — all accidentally — during the war.

Watching the flag ceremony with pride was Richard Prowse, 79, of Nanoose on Vancouver Island, whose father was one of the marines stationed on San Juan.

Kaiser Decided

John Nicholson told the crowd of about 2,000 that had the Kaiser's decision gone the other way "you'd now be standing on my territory."

All the way from Salt Lake City came Chris Pickett, great-grandson of Capt. George Pickett who commanded the American force on the island, and others present included Richard Bodman, assistant secretary of the U.S. interior department; Rep. Lloyd Meeds of Washington state; British Consul General Francis Pelly from Vancouver, and a respresentative of the German consulate in Seattle.

B.C.'s Premier Dave Barrett had been invited, but couldn't attend.

There was only one flaw in the ceremony.

Original plans had called for a field gun from Victoria and a U.S. howitzer each to fire a 21-gun salute. Unfortunately the field gun jammed after nine rounds, and the howitzer never arrived.

Umpires To Plumb Wage Hike Result

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislature Reporter

Premier Barrett told the Legislature Monday the province plans to hire "competent and knowledgeable people" to study the effects of proposed staged increases in the B.C. minimum wage to $2.50 an hour within 18 months.

Meanwhile, the house gave unanimous approval in principle to a bill which will immediately raise the minimum wage from $1.50 to $2.00 an hour. The bill also establishes for first time a new minimum wage category of $1.65 an hour for those 17 and under.

In the course of two hours of debate on the proposal there was general agreement on the principle involved through MLAs on the government and opposition sides of the house disagreed on issue of whether or not the full planned increase would be inflationary.

Labor Minister William King, who is piloting the bill through the house, said the government decision was based upon submissions from labor and management.

The provision that a 25 cent an hour increase come on the new $2.00 figure into effect in one year and a further 25 cents in 18 months time, King said, was a "reasonable step" designed to allow small businesses to adjust to the full impact of the change.

James Chabot (SC-Columbia River), who served as labor minister in the former Socred administration, said his party supports the initial increase to $2.00 an hour despite some concern over the inflationary effects of the move.

Patrick McGeer (L-Point Grey) said his party supports the move as a means of assisting the working poor who are "the most exploited and disadvantaged of all" in society.

After Opposition leader W. A. C. Bennett spoke briefly, asking the government to consider a subsidy for handicapped workers so that the higher minimum wage wouldn't result in them being fired, Barret entered the debate.

The premier said the proposed increases are designed to help all of the disadvantaged by giving them an incentive to get off welfare. He added: "No just employer will fight this reasonable wage."

The reason for staged increases to the $2.50 an hour figure promised by the NDP during the election campaign, Barrett said, was that it discovered upon taking office that there was no Socred research on the effects of the higher minimum wage.

McGeer
... B.C. emerging

Education Curbs Eased

By RAY DYKES
Colonist Legislature Staff

It was "complete mischief" to claim there had been a taxpayers' revolt against education in B.C., Liberal Pat McGeer said in the Legislature Monday.

The Liberals and Conservatives joined with the NDP government to support amendments to the Public Schools Act which take the restrictions off teachers' salary increases and allow school districts greater cash freedom.

McGeer said B.C. was emerging from one of its darkest periods in education where the former Social Credit government had "let loose" damaging attitudes on education spending and priorities.

"There isn't any way 23,000 teachers can make a significant dent in the wealth of B.C.," the former Liberal leader told the Legislature.

McGeer warmly congratulated Education Minister Eileen Dailly for the changes in the Public Schools Act and said, "we have to put behind us the kind of insanity that has dictated education budgets in the past."

She said the removal of the Socred-imposed limit of 108 per cent on school board operating costs and the introduction of a 110 per cent limit was not a "blank cheque" for school districts as there were restrictions.

And Mrs. Dailly promised that legislation would be introduced in the spring session of the Legislature to make kindergartens mandatory throughout the province.

The minister said school boards considering starting kindergartens in the next school year would be given special consideration when their budgets came up for approval.

The Social Credit opposition voted against the changes in the education system, but only one man, Ed Smith of North Peace River, spoke out in the Legislature.

Smith said all school boards will now go to 110 per cent for operating costs and then, under the changes, will be allowed to raise further cash without referendum providing they have two-thirds support from trustees.

He said he opposed the changes because they would set a precedent by removing from the act "checks and balances" designed to protect the average citizen from inflationary increases in the education system made without his consent.

Eventually mineral and petroleum companies would be driven from the province by the higher taxes, "and where will the money come from then?" Smith asked.

Conservative house leader Scott Wallace (Oak Bay) lauded the changes saying they would "restore a sense of harmony, confidence and trust" at the trustee, teacher and government levels in education.

Both opposition and government members called for a division on the second reading motion. The 10 Socreds voted against the bill and its changes while the 42 other MLAs in the Legislature at the time voted in favor.

County Court

Request Denied

"I don't want to send you to the penitentiary," Judge M. L. T. Drake told a 22-year-old Saanich man in Victoria County Court Monday morning. "I think the chances for your rehabilitation are better if you remain within the provincial (jail) system."

He turned down the request of the man, Ronald Brian Cunningham, for a penitentiary term and sentenced him to a total jail stay of two years definite plus four years less two days indeterminate on six counts of drug possession.

But whether Cunningham will stay out of the penitentiary will not be finally decided until this morning when he is sentenced by Provincial Court Judge William Ostler on a separate charge of trafficking in marijuana.

Cunningham was due to be sentenced by Ostler Monday afternoon, but after a short hearing, the matter was adjourned until this morning so that some of the legal points arising from the relationship between the two sentences could be considered.

In County Court, Cunningham, of 3105 Tillicum, had pleaded guilty Oct. 12 to 1971, involving possession of heroin, marijuana and LSD, and three counts dated Feb. 25, 1972, involving possession of marijuana seeds, hashish and MDA.

In the afternoon Cunningham appeared before Ostler to be sentenced on the trafficking charge. He had pleaded guilty to that charge also Oct. 12; the charge involved three ounces of marijuana which Cunningham had sold to an RCMP undercover agent for $30 Aug. 9 at the Churchill hotel, 1140 Government.

Special Session

$1,000 for MLA's

The 55 members of the legislature will each receive an indemnity of $1,000 plus living allowance and travelling expenses for the special session, which is expected to end by Friday.

A bill was introduced in the Legislature at the close of Monday's sitting giving the size of the indemnity and stating that members would receive $50 a day living allowance plus expenses incurred travelling to and from their home riding.

In addition Speaker Gordon Dowding will receive a special allowance of $400 and deputy speaker Hartley Dent (NDP-Skeena) will get $200.

The regular indemnities and expenses for MLAs amount to a total of $10,000 annually. The special sessional allowance is in addition to that.

For under $100 we know of no other portable calculator that will give you office machine accuracy and convenience away from the office. The DIGI-MATIC 8 is the kind of personal-size calculator you've been waiting for. Fast, accurate, durable, attractive, the DIGI-MATIC 8 adds, subtracts, multiplies, divides and does mixed calculations anytime, anywhere. Instantly. Without any excuses. Here's why:

The incomparable DIGI-MATIC 8 is sold only by Simpsons Sears

Floating decimal
Some portable calculators have a fixed decimal. This leads to small errors when you multiply or divide using a few decimal places, gross errors when working with many decimal places. The DIGI-MATIC 8 has a floating decimal. Which means it doesn't round figures off to one or two decimals. The decimal point goes where it has to go to give you the correct answer.

Constant key
Special constant key permits continuous multiplication or division.

CE key
Say you're working to a final total through a long set of calculations. And you make a mistake on the last entry. The CE key allows you to clear the wrong entry and put in the correct one. There's no need to start all over from the beginning.

Portable power counts
Many portable calculators offer you only minutes of portable calculating time. The DIGI-MATIC 8 offers you up to 3 hours. You see, some other calculators use small throw-away batteries. Like some toys. But the DIGI-MATIC 8 is powered by rechargeable ni-cad batteries (recharger included). You simply plug it in and while you're using it, the DIGI-MATIC 8 is recharging itself.

More
- Credit balance function allows you to get a minus read-out
- 8 digit read-out is in full-view when in use on a flat surface
- Overflow indicator tells you when total contains more than 8 digits
- Tough ABS plastic case; measures 5¾"x3", total weight is just 10 ozs.

Comeback Tab Costly

NEW YORK (AP) — British pop singer Dorothy Squires, 48, who launched a comeback in England two years ago by hiring the London Palladium and giving a concert, did the same in the United States Sunday night by hiring Carnegie Hall.

The show, which was Miss Squires singing a succession of songs, most of them vintage, lasted 2½ hours. Carnegie Hall was less than half filled. Estimates ran that the evening cost the singer $50,000. She said earlier in the week that $50,000 should pay for both Carnegie and a concert she will give in the Los Angeles Music Centre.

A planeload of fans had Miss Squires was a pop come from Britain.

Miss Squires was a pop singer before her marriage to actor Roger Moore in the 1950s. She retired during the time she was married but after they were divorced in the 1960s, she decided to return to singing.

There are only eight things worth looking for (and paying extra for) in Color TV. Most manufacturers put most of them in their high-priced models—and they put some of them in their low-priced models. But no-one has so many of them in models priced as low as ours. And that's something you can easily check for yourself.

PICTURE QUALITY FEATURES:

1.	A "Natural Color" Picture Tube.	(Some picture tubes produce very bright, overly dramatic colors. But Fleetwood's SuperColor and TruColor Picture Tubes are both designed to make colors softer, more natural. In the long run, you'll be much happier with color like that.)
2.	Automatic Picture Tuning.	(We call it Total Picture Lok. It's a simple push-bar that controls and balances Color, Tint, Contrast, Brightness and Fine Tuning—automatically finds the best picture your set is capable of receiving on each channel. If you buy a set with this very worthwhile feature, you won't need the next three features. They're already included.)
3.	Automatic Color Tuning.	(It combines the functions of Automatic Tint Control and Automatic Fine Tuning—which between them determine the quality of the Color you get on each channel. We call it Total Color Lok. And if it's on the set you choose, you won't need the next two features.)
4.	Automatic Tint Control.	(We call it Tint Lok. What it does is automatically adjust color values. So if a series of greenish faces suddenly appear on your screen, you can just switch to Automatic Tint Control instead of trying to make the adjustment manually).
5.	Automatic Fine Tuning.	(It works like a push-button radio. You tune each station just once and your TV set "remembers" for itself after that. We call our AFT control Color Lok.)

RELIABILITY FEATURES:

6.	A Solid State Chassis.	(That's usually taken to mean a chassis that's at least 90% solid state. Transistors replace old-fashioned vacuum tubes in a solid state chassis—and transistors run cooler and thus eliminate overheating problems.)
7.	Plug-in Transistors.	(Because they're easier, faster and cheaper to replace than the solder-in kind. Fleetwood is the only manufacturer to use plug-in transistors right throughout the circuitry).
8.	A Solid State Voltage Booster.	(It boosts house current up to the high voltages needed to operate Color TV. You'll still find bulky and relatively unreliable voltage "cages" in some sets. They take up a lot of space and give off a lot of heat. Avoid them.)

Yule Specials

It is probably tempting fate to even think about Christmas, let alone write about it, while we are still paying off our summer holiday bills. Yet, if we are to have some bulb flowers actually in bloom in time for the Christmas season, we'd better get cracking.

I must make it clear that you can't buy just any old kind of flower bulb and expect them to bloom in time for Christmas, for most of our common kinds won't allow themselves to be rushed to that extent. About the surest bet is the so-called Roman hyacinth — actually imported from France — which is nothing like the fat, opulent Dutch hyacinth but has a certain grace and daintiness in its widely-spaced, loosely hung white bells. It has the true hyacinth fragrance, although not as strong, and it is much earlier and easier to grow than the regular kinds. Prices are around 40 cents per bulb.

The Cynthella or miniature hyacinths are similar in form although not quite so early to bloom, and are available in quite a wide range of colors; the Roman hyacinths come only in white.

These miniatures — known also as the Dutch-Roman hyacinths — are not as small as the name would imply; they make surprisingly large spikes of bloom, even though the bulbs themselves are quite small. Their special virtues are their early blooming habit and their low cost — about 25 cents as against 46 cents for a top grade Dutch hyacinth bulb. They come in light and dark pink, light and dark blue, white, red and yellow.

The true Dutch hyacinths are supreme as potted plants and their sweet fragrance can perfume a whole room, but these need a long period in cold darkness after potting up and are therefore considerably later in coming into bloom. If the Christmas deadline is not important, I would like to suggest Carnegie and L'Innocence as very fine white varieties, while Ostara is a grand clear blue.

Some good pinks are Pink Pearl, fairly deep in shade; Princess Margaret, flesh pink; Princess Irene, a silvery pink. La Victoire and Tubergen's Scarlet are good red varieties, City of Haarlem is a pale yellow, while Oranje Boven — listed as Salmonella in some catalogues — is a unique orange-salmon shade.

The earliest narcissi for indoor forcing are the sweetly scented Paper White and its golden cousin, Grand Soleil d'Or, and the traditional way of growing these is in ornamental bowls of pebbles and water — more about this later.

Both of these can be brought into bloom in time for Christmas, and require no period of cold, dark storage at all. Paper White bulbs imported from Northern France run around 30 cents each and Grand Soleil d'Or about 40 cents.

To the best of my knowledge, there are NO tulips which can be forced into bloom in time for Christmas — at least, not under ordinary household conditions. In past years my favorite tulip for indoor forcing was the tiny Duc Van Thol variety, standing only eight inches tall and beautifully proportioned, but these seem to be off the market now; I can't find them in any of my catalogues.

The long-stemmed tulips are no good for potting, for they grow even taller and floppier under indoor conditions. The Single Early tulips are excellent for pot work, 10 to 14 inches tall and reasonably priced at 15 to 25 cents each. Two of my favorites are Bellona, a golden yellow, and General De Wet, orange suffused gold and without question the most fragrant of all tulips.

I have had no luck at all growing any of the "wild" or species tulips indoors although they thrive like weeds in the garden, and I do wish I could discover the secret of indoor culture, for these wildings are by far the earliest tulips. This year I will be trying one called Red Riding Hood, an 8-inch dwarf with scarlet flowers and red-striped leaves.

The little bulbs — crocus, scilla, snowdrip, muscari — CAN be grown in pots and bowls, but they don't take too kindly to indoor life and they detest forcing; the yellow crocus is particularly stubborn. Actually, with these, I think it is better to grow them outdoors until bloom starts, then dig up a clump and sit it in a bowl of green forest moss for indoor decoration.

Lesson in Democracy

WASHINGTON — If and when there is ever a peace agreement on Vietnam there will be new elections. The United States is preparing for this eventuality and is now holding classes in Saigon for Vietnamese politicians.

The instructors are on loan from the Committee for the Re-Election of the President.

"Now, gentlemen, these are the materials absolutely essential for an open and free election. This is the Mark IV bugging device which can be placed in your opponent's office so you know what he is up to.

"Ah so, instructor, but we have no money to buy such expensive equipment.

"It depends on how you go about it, Col. Tho. The first thing you do is set up committees with innocent names like the 'Viet Cong for Thieu,' or the 'Committee to Eliminate the opposition.'

"Then you go to manufacturing groups, dairymen, importers, exporters, bankers and landowners and make them contribute $10 million to your party."

"That is good. Then we take the money and spend it on the the election?"

"No, general, you do not take the money and spend it on the election. You have to protect the people who gave the money.

"So you send your minister of commerce with a black satchel to pick up the money by hand. He takes the satchel by jeep to Da Nang where it is flown to Hue.

"In Hue it is taken by water buffalo to the Mekong Delta. There it is packed in bags of rice and shipped to Mexico.

"The money is put in a secret Mexican bank account and withdrawn a week later.

"It is flown back to Saigon and placed in the safe of the minister of commerce, and then, and only then, will it be disbursed for the campaign."

"Bugging equipment, tape machines, miniature cameras, disappearing ink, forged letterheads, pistols — the usual paraphernalia that anyone needs for a free and open election.

"Now once you have the equipment, you need volunteers to get your candidate elected. You have to be very selective.

"You want people with police and security experience, men who have worked in intelligence and espionage. They will be the key figures in the campaign. Yes, Maj. Ku?"

"Will these men go out and make speeches for the candidate?"

"No, dammit! They will remain undercover. You will use them to infiltrate the opposition.

"Their job will be to cause chaos in the enemy camp. They will report directly to the palace on anything they hear. This information will then be used against the opposition."

"Suppose they are discovered the opposition."

"Then the case will be taken over by your minister of Justice, who will deal with it at the appropriae time."

"Before or after the election?"

"That's a stupid question, general. It will be dealt with after the election?"

"Forgive me, honorable instructor, I was not thinking."

"It's all right. You people are new at holding democratic elections and I can't blame you if you don't know all the rules. Now are there any other questions?"

"Honorable instructor, suppose the Saigon press discovers that we are involved in these things? Suppose they make a big stink about what we have been doing? What do we do then?"

"You deny it!

Marx Treads Water

JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD — Mark Spitz dined in Chasen's the other night but got no respect from Groucho Marx. General manager Ronnie Clint put the famed Olympic star at the centre table front. "I just wanted everyone to see him," said Ronnie. "But Groucho got up from his table and walked by Mark mumbling: 'I guess I'll have to learn how to swim so I can get a better table in this joint'." Bill Holden was another diner and he looks sensaational. He was dining with producer Marty Rackin and his wife. I was with the Abe Lipseys. Abe is the furrier who outfitted Holywood stars for years and then he retired to play golf with Frank Sinatra and Vice-President Spiro Agnew down at Palm Springs. Whether it was boredom or Agnew's slice, Abe won't say but he is now an executive vice-president of the publicity firm which handles Spitz, Holden and Rackin among other people.

Touch dancing really is catching on. Kids are starting to appreciate what we knew all along. It's fun. Even Arthur Murray, no doubt encouraged by MGM's The Great Waltz, is sponsoring waltz contests again. Jack Benny, who never stopped dipping on the dance floor, is ecstatic.

Funny Funny World: Movie pioneer Adolph Zukor, now 99, was asked the secret of his long life. "Well," said Adolph, "I gave up smoking two years ago." It's true. Last time I saw him when he was a kid of 97, he was still smoking cigars longer than Milton Berle's.

Quelle Difference?

Despite all the corny and horny old jokes about "Vive la difference!" I become more and more convinced that the differences between men and women are much smaller than we have always thought, and the similarities much greater, deeper and more important.

And I am also convinced that some of the basic work now being done in the field of generics will emerge with the conclusive result that most of the male-female differences are culturally derived, and not inherent or congenital in any way.

We already know, for instance, that in the mechanism of inheritance, the human race has 23 pairs of chromosomes.

Only one pair of these carry genes that determine traits in which men and women differ. The other 22 pairs are simply human, not sexual.

This would indicate to me that — unless the 23rd pair is carrying an unbelievable overload of characteristics — apart from the differing biological functions of men and women, many so-called "masculine" and "feminine" traits are the products of social conditioning, of prejudice and convention and the persistence of male chauvinism over the centuries.

Human males (like males of most species) are built stronger, and they have decided what the proper role of the female should be in society.

Men have used that as an excuse to impose upon the female all the subsidiary and unattractive tasks — and all the passive and dependent attitudes — that suited the men best, that flattered their sense of virility and vanity in their physical strength.

Why, except in a few primitive matriarchal societies, have women not been permitted to take part in the councils of state, in the civic structure which owes so much of their conservation of family resources?

Certainly no "strength" is called for here — no "masculine" virtues are necessary in making decisions about war and welfare and the ways in which government will operate.

It is arguable, indeed, that women might run such affairs more prudently and sensibly than men ever have; mankind's record couldn'tpossibly be worse in this respect.

Woman is largely what she has been shaped by man, not by nature. We still do not know who she is, or what she can become.

In liberation, she may become as short-sighted or self-defeating as her male counterpart has been in history. But, hopefully, that 23rd pair of chromosomes may carry a larger share of common sense for survival.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Saturday's answer — Starting the bureau's sixth year as we started all the others, we repeated the annual question. To wit, the seven dwarfs were (in alphabetical order this time) Bashful, Doc, Dopey, Grumpy, Happy, Sleepy and Sneezy. Did you know a pornographic Snow White movie has been made? True.

Today's question returns us to the earlier-TV groove of recent weeks. F'rinstance, name the actors who played Mr. Novak and his school principal plus the first unsuccessful series of Peter (Columbo) Falk. Answers Wednesday.

Tuesday Highlights

● C-8:00 p.m.—The annual UN Day Concert, on PBS again, features mezzo Marilyn Horne, pianist Alicia de Larrochia, the New Jersey orchestra and music by Ravel, Brahms and Lutoslawski—9.

C-9:30—CBS shows the 1932 Gershwins presidential musical Of Thee I Sing with Carroll O'Connor. Anyone who saw it on CBC recently will agree it's a loser—7.

C-9:30—An hour Trudeau press conference. Marcus Welby will move to 7 p.m. Wednesday—8.

C-10:00—NBC profiles Carol Fugate, 29, who was 15 when she was given life for murder. The point is rehabilitation in prison—5.

C-10:30—Robert Stanfield joins the CBC party-leader series—2, 6.

CABLE 10—7:00 p.m., Island Hobbyist with Virginia Adrian and violins; 7:30, Cyril Large and Chess for Beginners; 8:00, Victoria Outdoorsman, sailing with Mike Watton; 8:30, Project Travel; 9:00, Helen Biernes and Outlook.

Tuesday Movies

9:30 a.m.—You for Me (missable 1952 romantic trifle), Peter Lawford, Gig Young. There's one week left in October so work on your Christmas list and use November to figure out how you'll pay for it—4.

12:00 noon—Back to God's Country (1954 Rock Hudson adventure, a loser). A little game: what do you consider God's country?—13.

● 4:00 p.m.—A Place in the Sun (good 1951 American tragedy), Montgomery Clift, Liz Taylor. Part one now, part two in 24 hours—5.

C-4:00—Gidget Goes Hawaiian (1961 Deborah Walley). Gidget's so dumb she thought Aloha was a berth in a train to Waikiki—7.

C-7:00—Escape (routine 1971 made-for-TV suspense), Chris George, Gloria Grahame and the ever-present William Windom—12.

C-7:30—Ritual of Evil (1969 suspense, not much more than routine), Louis Jourdan, Diana Hyland—13.

C-11:30—Torch Song (1953 Joan Crawford soaper). Brucie's Law: Most torch songs are more torchure than song—7, 12.

12:30 a.m.—Corvette K-225 (dreadful 1943 propaganda). Randolph Scott as a Canadian, no less, wins the war in a real sinker—13.

● 1:35—Double Indemnity (excellent 1944 suspense classic), Fred MacMurray, Barbara Stanwyck, Edward G. Robinson. By far today's best—12.

Tuesday Radio

8:00—NHL hockey, Pittsburgh at Vancouver—CJVI.

8:00—CBC Tuesday Night includes a boxing talk by Budd Schulberg and Morley Callaghan plus a saxophone concert—CBU (690).

10:30—The Winnipeg orchestra: Orff's Carmina Burana—CBU.

●—Recommended; C—Color.

Brilliant goalkeeping by Ron Griffis enabled Ingraham Buckaroos to pull off the biggest upset of the Victoria Intermediate Hockey League season Monday night.

Griffis turned away 22 shots in the second period when he allowed goals by Gary Hales and Murray Morrison and he stopped another 19 shots in the third period when only Dave Williams scored.

On Sunday, University of Victoria Vikings, who are competing in the league on an exhibition basis, won their fifth straight game by trouncing James Bay Athletic Association, 8-0, at Juan de Fuca Arena.

Stanfield Says Youth Trying To Beat System

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield has called for an end to the growing cynicism among young people in Canada.

In a speech Monday at the college in this southern Alberta city, he said under this cynicism, "rather than try to improve the system, it's easier to try to beat it."

He said he believes it is supremely important to the country's future that there be an end to the era of defeatism and self-doubt and a restoration of national consciousness and self-confidence.

The Conservative leader talked about youth, among other things, to a predominantly middle-aged audience that filled the 550-seat auditorium and overflowed into the lobby.

He said he shares with young people the knowledge that Canadians have the good fortune to live with the possibility of fulfilment, achievement and freedom greater than any other country in the world.

Canadians themselves would make their own future and society, he said.

But, to do this would mean work and little of that work would be easy. None of the things that would be achieved would be free.

Stanfield said the political institutions that have taken deep root in Canada need to be preserved if the country is to remain a truly independent nation.

The only way to improve the institutions was to appreciate them in value. The easy way to destroy them is to lose confidence in those values, he said. Earlier at a news conference, Mr. Stanfield had to respond to statements made by one of his own candidates.

He was asked to clarify positions stated by Robert Thompson, former Conservative MP for Red Deer and not the party's candidate in Surrey-White Rock in British Columbia.

During a recent campaign trip to Medicine Hat, Thompson said there would be a leadership convention of the party if it fared badly in the Oct. 30 election.

The Conservative leader reiterated past statements that the party's constitution requires a leadership convention if there is not a certain number of gains in an election.

When asked if he would give up the leadership following a poor showing, Stanfield replied: "I haven't given it thought."

Work Available–Trudeau

Jobless Product Of Capitalism

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Sunday he hopes Canada's unemployment rate will decline, but added the country will always have unemployment because of its highly industrialized, capitalist system.

The prime minister was speaking in an interview Sunday on the CBC's French-language network program Politique A Tout.

Trudeau said the department of regional economic expansion, the Local Initiatives Program and the Opportunities for Youth program were created because there was too much unemployment in Canada.

The latter two plans provide temporary jobs, but the government would never create permanent jobs outside the civil service, Trudeau said.

He also said there were many jobs available in the country which Canadians did not want.

"In fact, it's not that there's a shortage of jobs. Rather a shortage of acceptable jobs," he said, adding that Canadians today want more than employment, they want acceptable employment.

The high rate of automation in Canadian industry also was responsible for high unemployment. He asked if Canadians were prepared to limit progress and set machines aside to create work for everybody.

'Free as Apples'

'Unlegal' Grass Candidate's Aim

TORONTO (CP) — The "unlegalization" of marijuana is the major plank in the federal election platform of one of the candidates in Toronto's Spadina riding.

"Dr." Sydney Stern, a jovial 51-year-old hippie, says he is not an independent candidate in the Oct. 30 election, but the leader of the Know Party, which will let people know what really goes on in Parliament.

As to the "unlegalization" of marijuana, he explained: "I want everybody to be able to have it and smoke it without fear. Grass has got to be as free as apples and roses. But I don't want it legal like liquor, beer and wine, when they tell you where you can buy it and where you can drink it and how much."

Stern is unemployed and listed his occupation on his nomination as "gentleman." He's proud of a diploma, issued by Rochdale College, to certify that he has a PhD in Nothing.

"It's not one of those degrees you can buy for $25 at Rochdale, mind," he said.

"They bestowed it on me. I earned it. I even wrote a thesis for it."

Dressed in faded blue jeans, flowered shirt and suede waistcoat, Stern told how he made and lost "millions" Grade 9.

He made his millions, he said, as a gambler, a fight manager, a "legitimate" businessman selling appliances and clothes and a ticket hustler. He said he lost it all to "cab drivers, distilleries ae 16, after four years in and girls."

Barrett Meeting Trudeau

Premier Barrett said Monday he will meet briefly with Prime Minister Trudeau in Victoria this afternoon in an attempt to reach agreement on cost sharing for the proposed NDP $200 minimum income for all citizens over 65 who live in B.C.

He will go to the airport about mid-afternoon to meet Trudeau on his arrival for a four-hour campaign stopover which includes a meeting in the Royal Theatre. Barrett will talk to the prime minister as they drive into the city from Patricia Bay.

Barrett told reporters he had decided to become directly involved in negotiations because there appears to be "great difficulty, not only among civil servants but politicians," in deciding what the cost sharing formula should be for the proposed increase now before the Legislature.

"It's a question of semantics," Barrett said. "The federal government is having some difficulty in interpreting its own act (Canada Assistance Plan). But we will assist them. As a social worker I'm quite familiar with the definitions (in the act)."

Mayor, Grit Spur Gift Tax Saving

By RAY DYKES and IAN STREET
Colonist Legislature Staff

Oak Bay Mayor Frances Elford helped spur a proposed amendment Monday to B.C. gift tax legislation that would exempt non-profit corporations or organizations.

Minor housekeeping amendments to the Gift Tax Act are before the Legislature at the current sitting, but Monday a new amendment was introduced following a telephone conversation between Mrs. Elford and Premier Barrett.

The amendment stems from a situation involving an Oak Bay low-cost, senior citizens' housing project on Milton and money donated to the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club for the project. The donor, who wished to remain anonymous, sent $50,000 to the Kiwanis club before the gift tax was introduced by the former Social Credit government last year.

A further $28,000 was to be paid recently but gift tax of about $4,250 would have had to be paid.

Mrs. Elford thought this was "ridiculous" and decided to do something about it.

Her efforts resulted in what Barrett termed Monday an "excellent suggestion" and amending legislation was introduced as the Legislature

Kissinger Says Talks With Thieu 'Productive'

War-End Snagged In Saigon

AP, UPI

Presidential aide Henry Kissinger returned to the United States Monday as the U.S. embassy and a semi-official Saigon newspaper issued statements indicating the latest peace negotiations here had fallen short of an accord.

There was no official word on this, nor even on the subjects discussed, from either side. But an apparent failure to reach agreement centred on a ceasefire plan and an interim government to serve until a final political solution was achieved.

Kissinger spent five days in talks with President Nguyen Van Thieu, the most intensive Indochina peace negotiations to date. Asked at the airport if it had been a productive visit, Kissinger replied: "It always is when I'm here."

Arriving in Washington, Kissinger said, "We made some progress," but would not elaborate. He discussed his talks with Nixon for 30 minutes Monday night.

In Saigon, the embassy issued a brief and similar statement saying efforts toward an accord between Washington and Saigon will continue.

Tin Song, a newspaper which often reflects official views, said the general impression of observers was that negotiations between Thieu and Kissinger had been conducted in a "very heated atmosphere in the face of the unyielding Vietnamese determination to stand pat on its position."

A spokesman for the presidential palace said he could

Hurricane Aiming For Fiji

SUVA, Fiji (UPI) — Hurricane Bebe roared toward Fiji Monday packing 182-mile-an-hour winds after wrecking Funafuti and Rotuma islands in "one of the worst disasters in the South Pacific in this century," a Royal New Zealand Air Force spokesman said.

The pilot of a reconaissance aircraft said Rotuma Island was "a shambles."

"The airfield was littered with wreckage and we could not land there," he said. "We saw three Japanese fishing boats over 300 tons lying on their sides half submerged."

The air force said six people were missing in the disaster.

The Fiji weather office said if Bebe continued its present course, the stor mwould hit western Yasawa Islands of the Fiji group late today but was not likely to reach Suva.

Oil Giants Join Ranks Of Lewis' Tax Bums

CALGARY (CP) — New Democratic Party Leader David Lewis flew tooth and nail at the oil and gas industry on its home ground Monday, adding three more firms to his list of "corporate welfare bums."

- Campaign stores, Pages 14, 21, 36.

"I have come into the den of the oil giants, taken the tiger by the tail and swung it around my head for all to see," he grinned to a roaring crowd that may have numbered about 2,000.

The three firms he attacked this time were: Gulf Oil Canada Ltd., Petrofina Canada Ltd., and TransCanada Pipe-Lines Ltd.

Lewis said Gulf had net earnings of $526.4 million between 1968 and 1971 and paid $49.1 million in taxes.

That meant a tax rate of 9.3 per cent — about the same as a family of four living on $6,000 yearly, he said.

"Gulf managed this achievement of good corporate citizenship by taking advantage of tax loop-holes and accumulating deferred taxes of $91.8 million, an interest-free loan from you, the taxpayer to this poor, poverty-ridden, penniless, foreign-controlled company."

Petrofina did not pay any taxes between 1966 and 1971, despite profits of about $80 million, he said.

Lewis said he included TransCanada on Monday's list "purely for nostalgic reasons."

'Black Day' Beautiful

A Socred MLA who referred to Aug. 30 as a "black day for B.C." when the province elected its first NDP government got support from an unexpected quarter Monday.

Rosemary Brown (NDP—Burrard), one of two black MLAs elected to the government side in the last election, noted several past references by Pat Jordan (SC—North Okanagan) to the black day on which the voters made their decision.

"As a person who believes very strongly that black is beautiful," Mrs. Brown told the house, "I would like to endorse the statement that Aug. 30 was one of the blackest and most beautiful days for the people of this province."

She said the legislation presented to this special session heralds "just the beginning of a beautiful era for B.C."

Five-Year-Old's Protest Turns Sour

By DONAL O'HIGGINS

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Not since Lucifer tumbled from the heavens has pride been so rudely shattered. But in little Johnny Mulligan's fall, the blame was someone else's.

It began with moments of heady excitement when 5-year-old Johnny joined several hundred other kids in a noisy protest march in the Roman Catholic Ballymurphy housing estate.

It was the second Sunday outing to demand the withdrawal of Britain's red-bereted paratroopers from the area.

From the start it was bedlam. The chanting, singing marchers jostled through the narrow streets, with Johnny in the vanguard.

Those in front struck up the Soldiers Song, the national anthem of the Irish Republic. A rival chorus in the middle replied with We Shall Overcome, theme song of the U.S. civil rights movement. At the rear they sang The Men Behind The Wire, the ballad of the internees. On the sidewalk two dogs tore lumps of fur from each other with ear-splitting snarls.

Johnny didn't sing. He may not have known what it was all about, but he was determined to show that he could shout.

"Paras out, paras out," he yelled, defiantly, for a quarter mile, giving a rude two-finger sign he had seen the grown-ups do.

Johnny, puzzled, hesitated a moment, then fiercely joined the chorus. "Para-lover, para-lover," he shrilled.

A 7-year-old stared at him, contempt spilling across his face. "It's you, you ass," he said.

"Look at your jacket, you British creep," said a roly-poly youngster, shaking a pudgy fist under Johnny's nose.

Johnny tore off his trendy little jacket. He stared in utter disbelief. There, on the back, in glaring white, was the emblem of the paratroopers.

"Oh," said Johnny, and, again, "Oh."

Then, in the circumstances, he did the only thing open to him.

He ran helter-skelter home, screaming "Mummy" as he went.

B.C. Will Start Prosecuting Next Year

Motorists who remove emission controls from their cars are doing an "anti-social thing" and the Motor Vehicles Branch is getting ready to prosecute them but not until the latter part of next year.

"There is a program in the development stage in which we will inspect vehicles to discover whether these devices are working," he told the Colonist in a telephone interview Monday.

If they are not working, the motorist will be required to correct the situation, he added.

"The inspection will identify vehicles in which the devices have been removed and this is against the law," Hadfield said.

Some motorists are removing the devices, the superintendent said, in order to get higher gas mileage.

"But this is defeating the whole excercise of keeping pollution down. It's an anti-social thing and there is a strong law which says this is not good enough."

The legislation, which has been in force for some time, provides for a minimum fine of $100, Hadfield said. "It's not low. The penalty is one which fits the crime."

All 1971 vehicles had to be equipped with the devices, he pointed out, "so we have two years' models and we're already into the third."

"We've identified a few where we think the devices have been removed and we'll be ready to take punitive steps toward the end of next year."

Naturalists See Peregrine as Endangered

By MILDRED KURTZ ...
Colonist Correspondent

PARKSVILLE — Some 20 resolutions and suggestions were dealt with and approved in principle at the fall meeting of the Federation of B.C. Naturalists held here recently at the Island Hall Hotel.

About 40 delegates from many points in British Columbia were greeted by Federation president Elton A. Anderson of Victoria and discussions took place all day about wildlife, park and greenbelt areas, pollution and the ecology in general.

Among resolutions was one for the full protection of Peregrine falcons with the abolishment of granting of permits to take these birds which are seen as an endangered species.

Also for the abolishment of the use of poison to control livestock predators. This resolution included a suggestion that where stock has been lost to predators farmers be compensated for the animals. It was pointed out in discussing this matter that if industry can be subsidized why not wildlife which is in danger of becoming extinct.

Another suggestion approved was for a moratorium on logging in parts of Vancouver Island until government policies have been defined.

The extension of the hiking trail program was called for and further that these trails be kept in good condition to lessen the danger of hikers being lost. Mt. Seymour Park was cited as one example in this discussion.

The extension of the biological work of the fish and wildlife and parks branches was advocated and to include studies of non-game animals.

A resolution on littering contained a recommendation that a strong and comprehensive campaign against outdoors littering be initiated by the government. Also that in addition to conservation officers other classes of government employees such as the department of highways and forest service be given powers to deal with offenders. It was stated that litter of any kind degrades the value of the outdoors and is often responsible for attracting bears with resulting danger to the animals and humans.

Many other resolutions were dealth with including two from Arrowsmith Natural History Society of the Parksville district. These call for the establishment of reserve park areas in the Illusion Lake and Spider Lake areas near Horne Lake and also for a reserve park on crown land in the Little Mountain area near Errington. Parksville and District Chamber of Commerce had previously supported these two proposals but had suggested a larger acreage be requested in the Little Mountain resolution. The resolutions were referred to the Federation committee for re-wording.

The meeting was hosted by Arrowsmith Natural History Society of which A. George Tranfield of Parksville is president.

Appeal Helps Hungry Tots

DUNCAN — Once every year the plight of hungry children cowers at the doorsteps of Canadian communities and one courageous woman, Dr. Lotta Hitchmanova travels across the land pleading for help on behalf of the poorest in the world.

Her working day does not consist of eight hours but many more and there is hardly a holiday because hunger and destitution does not take time off. Although her busy schedule may not permit her to visit her many friends in the Cowichan Valley this year her call for help will be carried by two men, Art Mann and Robert James, who will co-ordinate the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada efforts here.

Dr. Hitchmanova

In her capacity as executive director of the USC, Dr. Hitchmanova is no stranger in the Cowichan Valley because every other year she has a speaking engagement which never fails to rouse understanding for the great need in less fortunate countries where people lack the most basic things. Because this year she will not be able to come here herself some of her jottings from various lands shall be quoted.

From Vietnam: "Have you ever asked yourselves how you would feel if you were suddenly robbed of your eyesight and you would never again see the flowers in spring, the sun burning down from a dark blue sky, the smile of someone very close to you? I confess this thought had never struck me until I was suddenly faced by the terrible problem of blindness this past week in Vietnam where an estimated 31,000 people have lost their eyesight either through accident, disease or the war."

From Korea: "For the first time there was an astonishing balance between tasks accomplished and still continuing need for our kind of help, while during previous visits the suffering used to be so overwhelming that it used to overshadow completely the real headway the country had made in the preceding 12 months. For the first time in two decades happy, promising events dominated my days and I have been looking forward so much to sharing some of my wonderful memories with you now that I am back on Canadian soil."

The two Duncan co-ordinators of this year's USC campaign which will begin early next month explained that this year in addition to money donations good clothing will be accepted to help the poor overseas. Besides having designed a poster to aid the campaign, James also will give a free poetry reading to raise funds. Other fund raising activities are planned.

Duncan city council has agreed to make availlable the old municipal hall on Canada Ave. as a depot for the clothing collection and several groups have already promised to pitch in. The 14 members of the Cowichan Community Television under the local initiative program have already donated $100 and they also will give clothing.

Mann said about three years ago the five private schools in this area, Brentwood College, Strathcona School for girls, Cliffside Preparatory, Shawnigan Lake Boys School and Queen Margaret's School joined efforts to keep an out-patient hospital going for one year. James said "one of the greatest concerns that occupies Dr. Hitchmanova's mind is that many people in Canada perhaps cannot imagine the great need that exists in countries abroad."

Tidal Lake Throngs With Chum Seekers

By KLAUS MUENTER
Colonist Correspondent

NITINAT LAKE — The large operation underway now on Nitinat Lake probably will be remembered for many years as "the big Fishing." It started 6 p.m. Sunday and will probably end 6 p.m. Wednesday.

At least two large fishing companies are involved and 80 seiners and 95 gillnetters harvesting the great abundance of chum salmon from the long tidal lake which connects with the Pacific through a gap.

One of the firms involved, Canadian Fishing Company, has three leading sites at the north end of the lake where the fish are transferred to large dump trucks which take the catch to Cowichan Bay from where it is shipped to Vancouver for canning. Fishermen and truckers are working around the clock to glean as many fish as possible within the period set by the federal fisheries department. A total of 15 trucks from seven firms are being used on the 140-mile return trip.

The company official said the last big fishing at Nitinat Lake was 11 years ago. According to unconfirmed reports the fishing is done to re-establish a healthy biological balance in the lake which now is overpopulated. The reason for the great influx of chum salmon is open for speculation. One theory claims that this year the Japanese fishing fleet missed the run.

According to an Indian fisherman who knows the lake well there never have been so many fish waiting outside the gap to get into the lake. He spoke of "millions of fish." The company spokesman said the fishing will go on at least until Wednesday evening, perhaps even longer. A final decision will be made by fisheries officers.

The fishing fleet arrived at Nitinat Lake well in time for the start of the big operation. One of the seiners, Misty Isle, from Vancouver sprang a leak and sank as soon as it reached one of the loading sites. There was no injury. It is believed that another large fishing company uses packers going through the gap said to be navigable only at certain times because of very strong tides and a sandbar.

Environmentalists Pleased at New Nanaimo Site

Davis Tips Superport Scales

Nanaimo's new superport will go on Northumberland Channel, Environment Minister Jack Davis said Sunday.

Davis said it had been agreed to put the port outside Nanaimo estuary — where environmentalists had feared it would endanger the feeding grounds of young salmon.

"In some ways the outer location is better for the users," Davis said. "The water is deeper and it is farther from the town."

A plan put forth by the Nanaimo Harbor Commission, would have seen Nanaimo harbor dredged to a depth of 45 feet and 150 acres of land created in the harbor through use of the dredge spoil. This new land would have housed a major forest products processing system and terminal and two large deep-sea berths to a c commodate international trading vessels of up to 60,000 tons in size.

The commission had planned the development as an expansion of its present facilities at the assembly wharf off downtown Nanaimo.

A spokesman for the Concerned Citizens Committee, which has opposed the plan for several reasons, said the minister's suggestion to locate the development outside the harbor had pleased his group.

Wayne Harling said the decision will assure preservation of the Nanaimo River estuary, particularly if the project was developed at Duke's point at the south end of the channel near the Harmac pulp mill.

A development there, he added, could still affect the river estuary since it is at the entrance to the harbor and in a direct line with the river mouth.

Nanaimo MLA, Agriculture Minister Dave Stupich, said that if the reason for the decision was to protect the estuary, then the decision was a good one.

He added that he had had reservations about expanding the downtown assembly wharf because of the increased traffic he said it would generate through downtown Nanaimo.

"We have enough of a traffic problem there, now," he said.

Mayor Frank Ney said he was happy that some decision had finally been made.

"Council has been waiting for the environmental report before coming down with a decision on whether to support the project. Now, we can get down to it," the mayor said.

The Nanaimo Harbor Commission has made no statements so far. Commissioners are said to be waiting until they receive a copy of Davis' remarks before commenting on the decision.

Davis

News of the federal decision came after a group of 20 environmentalists took a boat tour of the proposed development area.

The group was shown the estuary proposal by Bob Chase, the trade development officer for the Nanaimo Harbor Commission.

Chase used a tabletop model to indicate where the development would have gone in the estuary. He said the plan was not final and could be changed.

Sanford Addresses House

Hostility Rampant In Young Case

Campbell River was a divided city on education with hatred and hostility rampant, Comox New Democrat MLA Karen Sanford told the Legislature Monday.

In her maiden speech, Ms. Sanford praised changes by the government in the Public Schools Act and said there was room for more flexibility and innovative policies in education.

Then she cited Campbell River and although she did not name him, referred to high school principal John Young, who was recently fired by the local school board.

Ms. Sanford told the Legislature that a principal in Campbell River had been trying to introduce innovative approaches but some members of the community and school board were not ready to accept them.

However, a large section of the population was happy the principal's policies and as a result there was "divisiveness, hatred and hostility."

The people who suffered were the teacher and students as they had been "demoralized" by the publicity the divisiveness had brought on the high school, Ms. Sanford, a former school teacher, said.

She welcomed Education Minister Eileen Dailly's legislation to change the education system by lifting the 6.5 per cent ceiling on teachers salaries; increasing allowable spending by school boards on operating budgets up to 110 per cent; and allowing further financing of a two-thirds majority vote of school trustees.

And Mrs. Sanford said she hopes never to hear again reference in the Legislature to music and art teachers as "tippy tappy people" — an apparent reference to remarks made by former municipal affairs minister Dan Campbell, who she defeated in the Aug. 30 election.

Campbell River high school principal, John Young has appealed his dismissal and a hearing open to the public and press has been set for Nov. 28.

Hermit Holds Wilderness Open House

Osgood Lives Dream of City Folk

By GORDON HAMILTON
Colonist Correspondent

WINTER HARBOR — Many people dream of living a natural life, away from the distractions of city living, but few have the courage to take such a step.

Osgood Bearing, an unusual man with an equally unusual name has taken that step, and established himself in a small cabin on the remote northwest coast of Vancouver Island, not far from the small fishing community of Winter Harbor. Bearing's cabin, a simple one room structure, overlooks the Pacific Ocean, and its wooden walls have been turned a grey color from the ocean exposure. Inside the cabin is decorated with furniture made from driftwood, along with an assortment of bottles and balls that have floated onto the beach.

The cabin sits on a lonely bay with a half mile of golden beach, embraced at either end by rocky outcroppings to complete the picture of isolation. Few people ever find their way to Bearing's home, which is almost inaccessible by land.

But far more fascinating than the scenery which forms the background for this hermit's existance is the character and personality of Osgood Bearing. He is a young man, 25, and in his years has lived in many different parts of the world. Raised in Vancouver, he quit school and left home, seeking adventure riding freight trains across Canada, learning to play guitar in the process. He has continued to develop his musical interest ever since, composing his own songs and singing his way across the land. At one point in his life he earned his living as an entertainer in a Bangkok nightclub.

Bearing prefers to keep his music to himself now, as he has found unscrupulous promoters have on occasion stolen his material.

"One song I wrote in New Brunswick was lost when a girl friend gave it to a recording agency. She never heard from them, but a few months later, a well known American country artist came out with the same song," he said. Now only the seagulls hear his music.

Bearing has many idiosyncrasies, which have been moulded by the silence of his surroundings. He has no use for books, unless he has written them himself, as he feels these are second hand information, and a poor substitute for real experience.

Bearing
. . . isolated

"If I want to find something out, I go and do it," he said. "That's the only way to learn. People read books or listen to records. I go out and do those things, and I make my own music to listen to."

But processed foods and processed people are perhaps the main reason Bearing has chosen to make it through life on his own. A pot of porridge or a meal of wild onions and mussells gives Bearing a satisfaction denied most urban dwellers, no matter how well they may eat. Much of his food comes from the ocean, or from the forests, whose dense undergrowth and giant hemlock and cedar trees form Bearing's supermarket and playground. He was once asked if he was ever frightened, living so deep in the wilderness, and he replied: "Frightened? But this is my home: no one is frightened when they are at home."

Indeed the woods are his home, and its inhabitants his playmates. Louise, a doe comes by daily for visits, and during berry season, Bearing's favorite activity is picking salmon berries and singing songs with Alphonse, a large black bear. The habits and mannerisms of the wildlife are such a part of him that he is treated as a friend by all the forest inhabitants.

He has now spent two years living in the wilderness, making annual winter pilgrimages down Island for supplies. But these visits only help to confirm his ideas about the madness of the modern world, and each time he returns to his beach with a deeper conviction to remain a part of it.

Murderer Gets Life

Michael Sean McCormick, 33, was found guilty in Nanaimo, Monday of non-capital murder in the April 22 shooting death of 17-year-old Brenda Eileen Daniluck of Nanaimo. He was sentenced to life in prison.

The girl died of two gunshot wounds to the head from a .22 calibre revolver owned by McCormick. The incident occurred after the two had spent an evening in the Longhouse Restaurant cabaret on Front Street.

A B.C. Supreme Court jury deliberated for seven hours, 45 minutes before handing down its verdict Monday night.

McCormick was said to have left the restaurant shortly after midnight April 21 and taken a taxi to his Nanaimo home. The taxi driver told court McCormick said someone in the restaurant was giving him "a rough time," and that he was "going to fix them."

He said McCormick took something from the trunk of his car then returned to the restaurant.

Eyewitnesses told court they saw McCormick take a gun out in the cabaret and shoot at Linda Sweezey, 21, Miss Daniluck and Wayne Barber, who was not connected with McCormick's party. Another man, Rick Coultran, was felled by a bullet in the parking lot outside the restaurant as he tried to subdue McCormick.

Defence in the case, handled by Nanaimo lawyer R. M. Hutchinson, was based mainly on whether the accused was capable of forming the intent to kill in view of the fact that he had been drinking heavily through the day and evening prior to the shooting.

Crown prosecutors were David Williams, Q.C., of Duncan, and Alan Filmer of Nanaimo.

North Cowichan Tables Water Rights Bid

NORTH COWICHAN — At the regular meeting of North Cowichan council, the regional board resolution to ask the provincial comptroller of water rights to reserve the chemainus River water rights for the future for the whole of the regional district was tabled. Ald. Tom Burge said the resolution should be stopped because it could affect North Cowichan's application detrimentally. He added that part of the regional district would profit from North Cowichan's proposed large scale water source development anyhow.

North Cowichan municipality already has spent many thousands of dollars in Chemainus River water source development studies reaching tender calling phase. Ald. Margaret Robertson said the regional board resolution would be acceptable if the region or part of the region would join North Cowichan in developing the proposed Chemainus River water system.

Council decided that it would be in favor of turning over municipally owned land within the Cowichan Valley Forest Museum to the provincial government with the exception of the parking area outside the museum complex.

Reporting from a recent meeting of the Cowichan Valley Forest Museum, Ald. Archie Stevenson recalled Ald. Donald Morton's comments that the museum has cost the municipality, $70,000 during the past eight years. Morton also suggested that if that assistance was not enough, the museum perhaps should become a British Columbia Forest Museum and North Cowichan would turn over title to the lands it partially owns for their original cost.

In other business, council decided to go ahead with extending the water line along Genoa Bay Road to Bird's Eye Cove as a local improvement scheme involving 42 parcels of land and costing $47,000; gave the first three readings to the land fill regulation bylaw, and was told by Burge that the garbage incinerator on Herd Road will be operated by the municipality as of Jan. 1.

Hunters Fall Through Ice

RHEIN, Sask. (CP) — Yorkton RCMP Sunday recovered the bodies of two men who fell through the ice in marshland 15 miles northeast of here. Dead are Michael Gnyp, 56 and Gilles Desnower, 33, both of Yorkton. The men left Friday on a hunting trip and a search involved skin divers and tracking dogs. An inquest will be held.

Appeal at 28.3 Per Cent

Greater Victoria's 1972-73 United Appeal campaign has reached 28.3 per cent of its $724,931 target.

Currently the amount collected stands at $205,103.

Industry has donated $70,363, public services, $41,400; national corporations, $5,060; professions, $13,156; residential, $10,067; special gifts, $65,057.

An Appeal spokesman said because the campaign is short of canvassers, persons wishing to donate can:

- Mail their donation to the Community Chest office at 1951 Cook.
- Drop their donation off at the Rothmans Caravan at Douglas and Yates.
- Drop their donation at the Red Cross building at 1046 Fort.

Provincial Secretary Ernest Hall in a statement to the provincial civil servants last week said:

"While it can be argued that government rather than individuals should be wholly responsible for the support of the services provided by charitable organizations, the day when this will be possible has not yet arrived. It is gratifying, therefore, to note the increasing generosity of the government employees as indicated by the annual growth of this campaign."

Sextet To Seek Raise

Employees of an ambulance firm which provides emergency ambulance service to the city of Victoria will be looking for improved wages and working conditions in their first contract with the firm, a union official says.

The official, Alex Markides, who is a Victoria representative for the Canadian Union of Public employees, says a letter will be mailed to Garden City Ambulance Ltd. early this week.

The letter will ask the company to meet with Local 873, Ambulance Employees' Union, to negotiate for a new contract with the company's six employees.

Markides said Local 873 received official word Oct. 11 that the B.C. Labor Relations Board had certified CUPE as bargaining agent for the employees, which means the employees are now CUPE members.

On Friday, Markides, two union officials from Vancouver and two off-duty Garden City Ambulance employees met in Victoria to discuss the certification.

Markides said the six employees, before the meeting, had discussed what they would like to see in the new contract. The ideas and negotiation strategy were discussed at Friday's meeting.

The union official declined to disclose what the employees want in their first contract but said, "We hope to have an agreement in a very short period of time."

Under a three-year contract with Victoria, the ambulance company provides the city with emergency ambulance service for about $60,000 a year. The contract expires June 30, 1973.

Employees of the firm submitted their application for certification as union members Aug. 31 and a labor relations board review of the application was subsequently made.

Barrett Meeting Trudeau

Premier Barrett said Monday he will meet briefly with Prime Minister Trudeau in Victoria this afternoon in an attempt to reach agreement on cost sharing for the proposed NDP $200 minimum income for all citizens over 65 who live in B.C.

He will go to the airport about mid-afternoon to meet Trudeau on his arrival for a four-hour campaign stopover which includes a meeting in the Royal Theatre. Barrett will talk to the prime minister as they drive into the city from Patricia Bay.

Barrett told reporters he had decided to become directly involved in negotiations because there appears to be "great difficulty, not only among civil servants but politicians," in deciding what the cost sharing formula should be for the proposed increase now before the Legislature.

"It's a question of semantics," Barrett said. "The federal government is having some difficulty in interpreting its own act (Canada Assistance Plan). But we will assist them. As a social worker I'm quite familiar with the definitions (in the act)."

Mayor, Grit Spur Gift Tax Saving

By RAY DYKES and IAN STREET
Colonist Legislature Staff

Oak Bay Mayor Frances Elford helped spur a proposed amendment Monday to B.C. gift tax legislation that would exempt non-profit corporations or organizations.

Minor housekeeping amendments to the Gift Tax Act are before the Legislature at the current sitting, but Monday a new amendment was introduced following a telephone conversation between Mrs. Elford and Premier Barrett.

The amendment stems from a situation involving an Oak Bay low-cost, senior citizens' housing project on Milton and money donated to the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club for the project. The donor, who wished to remain anonymous, sent $50,000 to the Kiwanis club before the gift tax was introduced by the former Social Credit government last year.

A further $28,000 was to be paid recently but gift tax of about $4,250 would have had to be paid.

Mrs. Elford thought this was "ridiculous" and decided to do something about it.

Her efforts resulted in what Barrett termed Monday an "excellent suggestion" and amending legislation was introduced as the Legislature

Kissinger Says Talks With Thieu 'Productive'

War-End Snagged In Saigon

AP, UPI

Presidential aide Henry Kissinger returned to the United States Monday as the U.S. embassy and a semi-official Saigon newspaper issued statements indicating the latest peace negotiations here had fallen short of an accord.

There was no official word on this, nor even on the subjects discussed, from either side. But an apparent failure to reach agreement centred on a ceasefire plan and an interim government to serve until a final political solution was achieved.

Kissinger spent five days in talks with President Nguyen Van Thieu, the most intensive Indochina peace negotiations to date. Asked at the airport if it had been a productive visit, Kissinger replied: "It always is when I'm here."

Arriving in Washington, Kissinger said, "We made some progress," but would not elaborate. He discussed his talks with Nixon for 30 minutes Monday night.

In Saigon, the embassy issued a brief and similar statement saying efforts toward an accord between Washington and Saigon will continue.

Tin Song, a newspaper which often reflects official views, said the general impression of observers was that negotiations between Thieu and Kissinger had been conducted in a "very heated atmosphere in the face of the unyielding Vietnamese determination to stand pat on its position."

A spokesman for the presidential palace said he could

Hurricane Aiming For Fiji

SUVA, Fiji (UPI) — Hurricane Bebe roared toward Fiji Monday packing 182-mile-an-hour winds after wrecking Funafuti and Rotuma islands in "one of the worst disasters in the South Pacific in this century," a Royal New Zealand Air Force spokesman said.

The pilot of a reconaissance aircraft said Rotuma Island was "a shambles."

"The airfield was littered with wreckage and we could not land there," he said. "We saw three Japanese fishing boats over 300 tons lying on their sides half submerged."

The air force said six people were missing in the disaster.

The Fiji weather office said if Bebe continued its present course, the storm would hit western Yasawa Islands of the Fiji group late today but was not likely to reach Suva.

Barrett Meeting Trudeau

Premier Barrett said Monday he will meet briefly with Prime Minister Trudeau in Victoria this afternoon in an attempt to reach agreement on cost sharing for the proposed NDP $200 minimum income for all citizens over 65 who live in B.C.

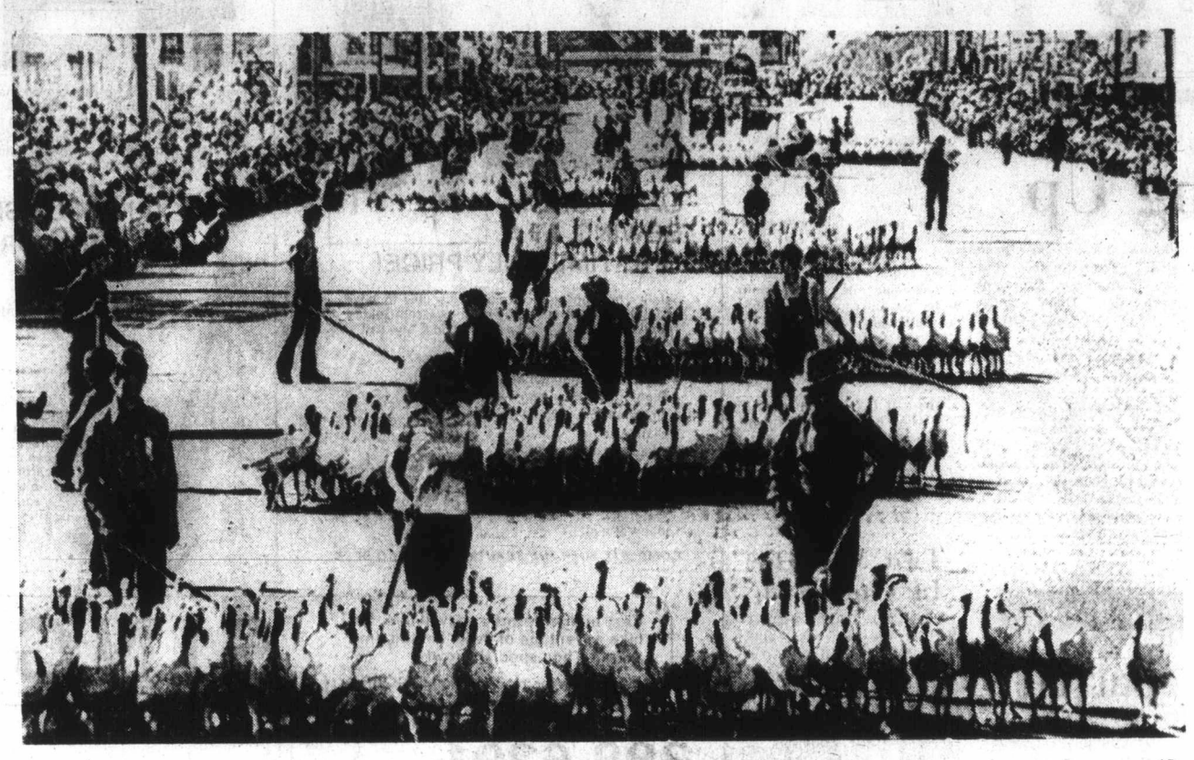

He will go to the airport about mid-afternoon to meet Trudeau on his arrival for a four-hour campaign stopover which includes a meeting in the Royal Theatre. Barrett will talk to the prime minister as they drive into the city from Patricia Bay.

Barrett told reporters he had decided to become directly involved in negotiations because there appears to be "great difficulty, not only among civil servants but politicians," in deciding what the cost sharing formula should be for the proposed increase now before the Legislature.

"It's a question of semantics," Barrett said. "The federal government is having some difficulty in interpreting its own act (Canada Assistance Plan). But we will assist them. As a social worker I'm quite familiar with the definitions (in the act)."

They March to a Different Drumstick

Stations Defy Allende

SANTIAGO (AP)—Three Chilean radio stations owned by opposition groups pulled out of a state-imposed national network Monday night and broadcast their own programs in defiance of President Salvador Allende's leftist administration. Authorities cut all three stations off the air within 1½ hours.

Oil Giants Join Ranks Of Lewis' Tax Bums

CALGARY (CP) — New Democratic Party Leader David Lewis flew tooth and nail at the oil and gas industry on its home ground Monday, adding three more firms to his list of "corporate welfare bums."

● Campaign stories, Pages 14, 21, 36.

"I have come into the den of the oil giants, taken the tiger by the tail and swung it around my head for all to see," he grinned to a roaring crowd that may have numbered about 2,000.

The three firms he attacked this time were: Gulf Oil Canada Ltd., Petrofina Canada Ltd., and TransCanada Pipe-Lines Ltd.

Lewis said Gulf had net earnings of $526.4 million between 1968 and 1971 and paid $49.1 million in taxes.

That meant a tax rate of 9.3 per cent — about the same as a family of four living on $6,000 yearly, he said.

"Gulf managed this achievement of good corporate citizenship by taking advantage of tax loop-holes and accumulating deferred taxes of $91.8 million, an interest-free loan from you, the taxpayer to this poor, poverty-ridden, penniless, foreign-controlled company."

Petrofina did not pay any taxes between 1966 and 1971, despite profits of about $80 million, he said.

Odd Pat for Jordan

'Black Day' Beautiful

A Socred MLA who referred to Aug. 30 as a "black day for B.C." when the province elected its first NDP government got support from an unexpected quarter Monday.

Rosemary Brown (NDP—Burrard), one of two black MLAs elected to the government side in the last election, noted several past references by Pat Jordan (SC—North Okanagan) to the black day on which the voters made their decision.

"As a person who believes very strongly that black is beautiful," Mrs. Brown told the house, "I would like to endorse the statement that Aug. 30 was one of the blackest and most beautiful days for the people of this province."

She said the legislation presented to this special session heralds "just the beginning of a beautiful era for B.C."

Five-Year-Old's Protest Turns Sour

By DONAL O'HIGGINS

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Not since Lucifer tumbled from the heavens has pride been so ruddely shattered. But in little Johnny Mulligan's fall, the blame was someone else's.

It was the second Sunday outing to demand the withdrawal of Britain's red-bereted paratroopers from the area.

From the start it was bedlam. The chanting, singing marchers jostled through the narrow streets, with Johnny in the vanguard.

Those in front struck up the Soldiers Song, the national anthem of the Irish Republic. A rival chorus in the middle replied with We Shall Overcome, theme song of the U.S. civil rights movement. At the rear they sang The Men Behind The Wire, the ballad of the internees. On the sidewalk two dogs tore lumps of fur from each other with ear-splitting snarls.

Johnny didn't sing. He may not have known what it was all about, but he was determined to show that he could shout.

"Paras out, paras out," he yelled, defiantly, for a quarter mile, giving a rude two-finger sign he had seen the grown-ups do.

A 7-year-old stared at him, contempt spilling across his face. "It's you, you ass," he said.

"Look at your jacket, you British creep," said a roly-poly youngster, shaking a pudgy fist under Johnny's nose.

Johnny tore off his trendy little jacket. He stared in utter disbelief. There, on the back, in glaring white, was the emblem of the paratroopers.

"Oh," said Johnny, and, again, "Oh."

Then, in the circumstances, he did the only thing open to him.

He ran helter-skelter home, screaming "Mummy" as he went.

B.C. Will Start Prosecuting Next Year

Hadfield

Motorists who remove emission controls from their cars are doing an "anti-social thing" and the Motor Vehicles Branch is getting ready to prosecute them but not until the latter part of next year.

"There is a program in the development stage in which we will inspect vehicles to discover whether these devices are working," he told the Colonist in a telephone interview Monday.

If they are not working, the motorist will be required to correct the situation, he added.

"The inspection will identify vehicles in which the devices have been removed and this is against the law," Hadfield said.

Some motorists are removing the devices, the superintendent said, in order to get higher gas mileage.

"But this is defeating the whole excercise of keeping pollution down. It's an anti-social thing and there is a strong law which says this is not good enough."

The legislation, which has been in force for some time, provides for a minimum fine of $100, Hadfield said. "It's not low. The penalty is one which fits the crime."

All 1971 vehicles had to be equipped with the devices, he pointed out, "so we have two years' models and we're already into the third."

"We've identified a few where we think the devices have been removed and we'll be ready to take punitive steps toward the end of next year."
